Vote Heavy In Italy's Momentous Election

ROME—(AP)—From their homes in the fields and the cities, Italians began crowding the polls today to vote in the national elections—fully aware of the momentousness of their decision and knowing well that the eyes of the world were on them.

Many stayed up all night, talking, arguing, thinking, and then headed for the voting places.

All of the nation's mobilized forces—330,000 troops and police of all kinds—were ordered to protect them in their rights.

All of yesterday's anti-communist newspapers carried advertisements saying: "Tomorrow you decide the destiny of Italy, the destiny of Europe! Vote!"

This plea summed up sharply the vast issues facing the 29,146,221 Italians eligible to vote in the two-day election. The warning was super-imposed upon a map of Europe showing Russia and her eastern European satellites in deep black, the rest of Europe in white.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi of the middle-of-the-road Christian Democratic party, summing up the issues in a newspaper interview after his final speech at Naples Friday night said the campaign had boiled down to the "iron alternatives" between "a regime of liberty or Bolshevik totalitarianism."

Home-grown issues were submerged by the questions of balance of power in Europe—communism and Russia or democracy and the United States—as Italians prepared to elect their first republican parliament of 574 deputies and 237 senators.

Most observers believed the communists had weakened and that the moderate parties would come out on top. Strong closing stock market quotations were interpreted as reflecting confidence by market operators in a communist defeat.

The tough preparations of Interior Minister Mario Scelba to guarantee the right of the people to choose without intimidation reflected the breadth of Italy's decision.

The public security forces were told to:

1. Deal forcefully with anyone trying to intimidate voters.

2. Keep crowds moving—voters must not be allowed to collect or loiter around polling places after voting.

3. Look for "obstructionism"—intentional delays in voting for instance—calculated to make waiting voters give up and go home.

4. Prevent electioneering around the polls.

In the last three weeks the 330,000 armed men of the security forces, re-organized and re-equipped (with much American and British surplus arms, tanks and armored cars) have put on impressive displays in potential trouble spots in both northern and southern Italy.

Under radio direction they have moved by column in and out of towns, concentrated, fanned out in simulated searches and re-concentrated.

Saturday these forces busily reinforced the government's decree ordering a ban on public political meetings

TAFT FLAYS SUPER-STATE PROPOSAL

Outlines Inflation Dangers

Warning Given By President

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman said last night the nation's economy "is in serious danger" from high prices. He demanded enactment of his anti-inflation program immediately "before it is too late."

The President, in an address prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said the success of American foreign policy depends to a large extent upon the strength and stability of the domestic economy.

"We are striving to avoid an economic crisis by protecting our prosperity while we still have it. We are striving to avoid a war crisis by being firm before it is too late," he told the editors.

"The plain fact is, however," Mr. Truman said, "that our economy is in serious danger as a result of high prices and inflation."

Mr. Truman recommended a 10-point economic program to Congress last November, including stand-by price, wage and rationing controls. He also asked for curbs on credit.

CRISIS GROWING

Considering all factors, he said, the danger of inflation has not diminished within the last few months. On the contrary, he said, the need for his 10-point program is "even more urgent."

"It seems to me," he asserted, "that the basic question is clear. It is whether we take action in time to do some good or whether we delay until a crisis is upon us. It is simply a matter of taking out insurance before the house catches fire."

Th President said the American people must not be misled by those who oppose a reasonable anti-inflation program and a reasonable defense program.

"It has been said that the present administration is trying to create an economic crisis or an international crisis," he said. "The exact opposite is the truth."

Stock Strike Parley Fails

NEW YORK —(AP)— A four-hour mediation session failed last night to end the 20-day-old strike at the New York stock exchange.

The meeting between union officials, stock exchange representatives and officials of the federal mediation and conciliation service was held at the insistence of Mayor William O'Dwyer who said "there is no reason why this dispute should not be settled immediately."

Officials of the AFL United Financial Employes made no comment on the meeting.

The financial workers, on strike since March 29, are demanding a $9 increase for those receiving up to $40 weekly and $15 for those earning more. The union said its members received from $27 to $102 weekly under the old scale.

A companion strike by the same union against the New York curb exchange was called off Friday on the basis of an agreement granting a 10 per cent wage increase and a bonus arrangement.

Bull In Silo Puts Farmer In Dither

NEW HAMPTON, Ia.—(AP)—Farmer Orvin Knutson has a two-horned dilemma at the bottom of his silo. A 1,200-pound guernsey bull fell into the pit and Knutson doesn't know what to do about it.

Along with a nice set of horns, the critter has such a mean disposition that Knutson doesn't want to descend into the narrow confines to attach hoisting bells.

He says it would cost more than the animal is worth to knock an exit hole and he has three feet of silage which would be spoiled if he killed the animal. It's a beastly problem.

Rainy Spring Delays Oats Planting

Couthern County Crop Half 'In'

Farmers in southern Richland county were reported Saturday to have completed the planting of 50 per cent of their oats crops.

But in the northern part of the county very little is "in." Spring rains have made the muck and clay land there unfit for planting, Guy L. Taylor, Richland county Triple-A chairman, explained.

Rainy weather affected the southern area much less. The earth there is more rolling and gravely. As a result it dries faster, Taylor said.

The first oats were planted two weeks ago. Taylor expects most of it to be planted in southern Richland county next week, and in the northern part within two weeks.

Although the wet weather delayed planting, he said the setback "wasn't very serious."

"Farmers still have time to get oats planted if the weather is good," he said.

Taylor said farmers generally have a "six-to-eight-weeks start" over last year, when they harvested less than a "25 per cent crop" of oats.

Farmers also have started to plant potatoes and to plow for corn. Taylor said most of the county's corn should be planted by May 15.

This year's wheat and hay crops look "really good," he added. Both are somewhat above average for this season. The first crop of hay will be harvested in June; wheat in July.

Lana Spends $30,000 On Trousseau

HOLLYWOOD —(AP) —Wealthy sportsman Bob Topping and actress Lana Turner plan to be married in two weeks and she has ordered a $30,000 wardrobe for the occasion.

Topping told reporters the marriage would take place as soon as his estranged wife, Arline Judge, signs divorce settlement papers in Bridgeport, Conn.

Topping and Miss Turner are going to London immediately after the marriage for the opening of his midget auto racing venture.

Charles C. Northrup of a clothes designing firm said Lana had ordered a 40-piece wardrobe, including suits, hats, coats, dresses, shoes and a wedding gown of champagne lace over champagne satin. At a Beverly Hills lingerie shop she bought such items as two dozen panties and brassieres, a dozen nightgowns, including six flowered chiffon numbers of fingertip length.

$24,000 Sought In Drive

Cancer Funds To Aid Clinic

Mansfield citizens have a personal stake in the third cancer fun drive for $24,000 which opens in the city tomorrow.

Anyone who wants proof of that statement need only look at the report for the first six months of the Mansfield Cancer clinic.

The report, just made public, shows that during the six months from Sept. 1, 1947, through February, 1948, 470 persons who had reason to believe that they might be suffering from cancer applied or were sent to the clinic for examination and dignosis.

"Although by yesterday a total of 608 persons had gone through the clinic," Richard Wolford, campaign chairman explained, "we have only the first six months' report catalogued. Of the 470 who were received at the clinic during the first six months, 10 were positive cancer cases. There were 112 suspicious cases who were sent to their family physicians for further diagnosis. Other persons who showed abnormalities other than cancer, numbered 141 and there were 245 normal persons."

Find 10 Cases

Among the 470 persons taken through the clinic from September through February, were 348 women and 112 men. Of the 10 cancer cases, nine were women, staff members at the clinic said.

"While the clinic for the first few months has been more successful than was at first anticipated, it must have more funds to continue the service started last

UAW Spurns Wage Offer

DETROIT —(AP)—The automobile industry's first 1948 wage offer—a six cent hourly raise from Chrysler Corporation—was turned down today by union representatives of the company's 75,000 employes.

The CIO United Auto Workers delegates from 13 Chrysler plants also asked the union's executive board for strike approval.

Such approval, expected from the board at a special meeting Tuesday would give National UAW Chrysler Director Norman Matthews authority to order a walkout at his discretion.

Matthews and corporation spokesmen refused to divulge the size of the offer. The figure was learned from some of the 100 delegates called by Matthews into "emergency" session to hear a "progress report" and "take whatever action they deem necessary."

An increase six times the amount offered has been sought since the UAW opened this year's negotiations with Chrysler Feb. 27.

FIELD OF BATTLE . . . General view of the site of 17th annual Mansfield Relays.

Springfield Wins

Mansfield Relays Viewed By 5,000

Mansfield had its day Saturday.

And even the weatherman, who doled out some rugged, miserable weather earlier in the week, cooperated as a record-breaking crowd turned out to watch the seventeenth running of the annual Mansfield Relays on the high school field. Springfield won top honors with 31.7 points, as Dayton Dunbar and Columbus Central tied for second with 23 each.

From 64 cities came 949 athletes vying for track glory in one of the earliest and oldest high school track carnivals in America. And the glory was there for the winners, with all three of the major press associations having representatives to carry stories all over the United States.

A warm sun, chilled somewhat by a stinging wind, beat down on the estimated 5,000 spectators who were given an added thrill in the appearance of Dave Albritton, former Olympic high jumper. Albritton, now 33 years old, coaches the Dayton Dunbar High school team which competed in the relays.

Near the finish of the meet Albritton gave a high jump exhibition and cleared what was announced as 6 feet 7 inches, but officially recognized as 6 feet 5 inches due to the sag in the bar.

See the News-Journal's sports pages for additional stories and picture coverage of the Mansfield Relays.

High school track stars from all over Ohio, and a team from Ambridge, Pa., battled through the afternoon in the colorful spectacle. Big, rugged athletes heaved and puffed in the shotput circle, while lithe and limber youths fought each other for recognition in the running events.

A touch of football was added when Marion Motley, fullback behometh of the Cleveland Browns' pro football team, appeared. Motley was surrounded by autograph seekers, and later some of the Mansfield Senior high gridders asked for a lesson in handling the football off the T-formation. The big pro star readily obliged.

Food Convoy Enters City

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Arab commanders reinforced and regrouped their men in the Judean hills Saturday for another attempt to close the highway to Tel Aviv and starve out the 100,000 Jews in Jerusalem.

Jewish warriors blasted open the highway in bitter fighting last week, and Saturday the Jews sent their largest food convoy into Jerusalem.

An estimated 1,500 troops of Haganah, the Jewish militia, guarded the 300 trucks loaded with flour, meat, vegetables and dairy products for the hungry Jews in the Holy City. The convoy also was protected by Jewish airforce planes.

A small group of priority passengers rode in the trucks, including a number of Jewish agency officials and participants in the recent Zionist general council meeting at Tel Aviv. The passengers said not a shot was fired.

Await Plans For Church

Members To Decide On Building Program

The architect's plans for a new First Congregational church should be ready by Tuesday, Fred Hout, publicity chairman for the church's building program, said yesterday.

W. H. Thomas, head of the firm of Thomas and Wagner, Philadelphia, has informed H. B. Soulen, chairman of the building committee that the plans for the church have been given top priority and that every effort is being made to have them delivered by Tuesday.

Bids for the work will be asked as soon as the plans are delivered and a congregational meeting will be held to study the bids, when they are received, Hout said.

Estimates of the cost of the church to be erected at Marion avenue and Millsboro road have been set at $300,000.

"It is reasonable to expect that the congregational meeting can be held early in May to obtain final approval of the project," Hout said. "It is hoped that at this meeting a decision can be reached on whether we will start immediately on the full project, including the sanctuary, religious education building, social hall and chapel. It is believed this final decision will be largely dependent upon the cost figures submitted by contractors."

Boy, 4, And Dog Die In Ice Box

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The bodies of four-year-old Daniel Chambers and his mongrel dog "Choppo" were found Saturday in an ice refrigerator in the rear of his home.

Officers speculated that Daniel crawled inside the refrigerator with the dog and pulled the door shut behind him. His death was ascribed to suffocation.

Coal Boss Wrangles With Foes

WASHINGTON —(AP)— John L. Lewis and the government barked at each other out of court Saturday as the country waited for a Monday verdict in his contempt trial.

Coal mine owners joined in the feuding.

Lewis, acting through his lawyer, demanded that Attorney General Tom Clark call off the April 3 court order requiring an end to the soft-coal work stoppage.

The Taft-Hartley act says such orders shall be cancelled in case of a "settlement." The United Mine Workers say that an April 12 arrangement for miners' pensions is a "settlement."

Thus Lewis was in the position of invoking a law which he enthusiastically hates.

ISSUES STATEMENT

Clark promptly issued a statement saying:

1. That "a substantial number of the miners have not yet obeyed the court's order by returning to work." (Associated Press reports from the coal fields said about one-third of the 400,000 soft-coal miners are still out.)

2. That "I shall take whatever action the facts and law warrant at the appropriate time."

3. That the "immediate question" is the judgment due Monday morning from Judge T. Alan Goldsborough in the contempt-of-court case.

The often-stated position of government attorneys is that the union and its president are guilty of contempt—no matter what happens to the pension dispute or the court order—because they let a week pass without ordering the miners back.

The supreme court has held that a person must obey a court order even if it later turns out to be illegal.

About the time Clark was putting out his statement, the Southern Coal Producers assocation hopped in. Joseph E. Moody, president of that group, sent Clark a telegram, backing him up.

Moody said the union is wrong about a "settlement" having been reached.

Link Europe, Says Leader

MARSEILLE, France — (AP) — Gen. Charles De Gaulle said last night "western Europe must be built as a grouping of states linked together by economics and eventually by a joint defense."

He spoke at the first national convention of the French People's Rally (RPF), generally known as De Gaulle's personal political following.

De Gaulle said that France is the "physical and moral center" of such a western European bloc. He added that it is up to France to have "Germany some day enter (the western European organization) to make for themselves a new life, not under the form of the Reich in power or in prospect, but as sovereign and federated states."

Of cooperation between America and Europe, De Gaulle said "we think it must go farther than the economic field and have the character of reciprocal political and strategic guaranty."

"When all this is done and when the free world will find itself really organized and interdependent," De Gaulle said, it would be the moment "to approach Soviet Russia and try to fix with her the terms of true peace."

Paper Says 1,000 Killed At Bogota

BOGOTA, Columbia — (AP) — El Tiempo, Bogota newspaper, estimated Saturday that 1,000 persons were killed in the Colombian capital's uprising of April 9.

Topping previous estimates of 300 killed, El Tiempo said 400 were buried in Bogota cemeteries in one day alone.

Launches Vigorous Campaign

Moves To Nip Stassen's Bid

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Senator Robert A. Taft opened his Ohio primary campaign last night with an assertion that a "world superstate" would be "utterly dangerous, impractical and ridiculous" at this time.

He chose foreign policy as his topic for a speech last night before the Ohio League of Young Republican clubs. It was the opening of a drive to stop the advancing political tide of Harold E. Stassen, short of the borders of Taft's home state.

The Ohio senator acknowledged in a news conference earlier in the day that he had a "serious fight" and a "good fight" on his hands before the May 4 Ohio primary, but said "things look generally favorable."

Stassen is contesting for 23 of the 53 Ohio delegates to the Republican National convention. Taft has a full slate in the field.

"I am as much opposed to a world super-state as I am in favor of a sound association of nations," said Taft, "because I feel that it would defeat the very purpose of all foreign policy—the freedom of our own people."

"Mr. Stassen, in 1945, apparently favored the prompt development of such a state within the near future, having an overall legislature to make laws for the entire world, and an international executive to enforce them in his discretion."

SEES LOSS OF FREEDOM

Such a state would "completely destroy the freedom of the people of the United States," said Taft. It's legislature "could pass tax laws to take our wealth and distribute it elsewhere. It could destroy our industry and our trade.

"It is impossible for me to see how you can combine a democratic state with a totalitarian state, or a capitalist state with a communist state," Taft declared.

"It is conceivable," he continued, "that the time may come when all the peoples of the world are sufficiently alike in language, philosophy and economic progress to make such a state possible, but today it is utterly dangerous, impractical and ridiculous."

He reviewed his beliefs on foreign policy by stating that what the country needs is an administration "determined to preserve peace" if consistent with freedom; one which crusades throughout the world for American institutions; one which will back up an impartial international tribunal, and one which has a unified armed service "centered around the strongest air force in the world."

Thousands Criticize Child Programs

Mansfielder's 'Listening Post' Grows

The "Listening Post" is growing. Throughout Ohio, thousands of parents and teachers have ears atuned to their radios as volunteer critics of programs beamed at school children and young people.

Most of the memberships have come from Cincinnati, Akron and Cleveland; others have come from other cities throughout the state.

Mansfield, too, is becoming interested. One hundred parents from Western avenue school district applied for "Listening Post" memberships Friday night.

They might have enlisted sooner but for the modesty of the founder of the "Listening Post" —Robert Y. Davis, teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school, adviser to Hi-Y boys and leader in Mansfield and state P-TA affairs.

Davis launched the movement last fall after his appointment as state radio chairman of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers associations. Since then he has spoken before numerous P-TA groups urging greater parental attention to the type of radio programs children hear.

He asks recruits in the "Listening Post" to pledge themselves:

1—To write three letters or cards to broadcasting companies expressing approval or disapproval of programs.

2—To study carefully the daily newspapers as the best guide to programs suitable for children's ears.

3—To encourage increased use of radio to further education in the schools.

As a result of the growing interest shown by P-TAs, Davis has been asked to speak in Columbus May 1 before the Institute for Education by Radio.

1,000 Farmers to Witness Pasture Improvement Project

Trash-Mulch Exhibit Set For April 22

Chesterville Farm Scene of Display

MT. GILEAD - A trash-mulch pasture improvement demonstration will be held April 22 on the John Irvine farm, west of Chesterville on Route 95.

Between 500 and 1,000 people are expected to witness the demonstration, according to C. H. Patzer, chairman of the planning group.

"The fact that events have been planned so that anyone spending an hour at the farm can see all the steps of the trash-mulch method of pasture reclamation, should make it easy for a large number of Morrow county farmers to attend," Patzer stated. "Any farmer in the county can take a few extra minutes off at noon, and see what can be done to rebuild these old, worn out pastures."

Twelve acres of pasture land will be seeded by the trash-mulch method.

LUNCH AT NOON

Arrangements have been made by Fred Brown, member of the board of supervisors of Headwaters Soil Conservation district, for lunch to be served on the grounds by the women of the Harmony church.

Seed, lime, and fertilizer will all be paid for by Irvine in line with the planning committee's desire to demonstrate that this is a practical operation which can be performed profitably on any Morrow county farm under similar conditions.

The pasture as it now stands will support about one-tenth of one cow per acre for part of the summer, according to Elwood Davis, county agent. It is expected that after the new seeding is established, it will support one cow per acre throughout the entire grazing season. Not only will the carrying capacity of the field be increased by ten times, but the livestock will be getting far superior feed, Davis said.

SEEDING MIXTURE

The seeding mixtures to be used include six pounds of ranger alfalfa, two pounds of red clover, one pound of ladino clover, four pounds of timothy, and eight pounds of bromegrass. This mixture will produce the maximum amount of feed for hay and pasture.

Three tons of No. 10 agricultural ground limestone will be applied to each acre in addition to 300 pounds of hydrated lime.

The operation has been tested more than 100 times and has proved to bring in a 200 per cent return within two years.

Committee chairmen have been named as follows: Fred Brown, materials; Scott Belt, machinery; William Reed, fencing; F. W. Lample, publicity; Sheriff Tom England, parking; Elwood Davis, speaker, and Hershel Hooker and Roy Rollen, equipment.

STUDENTS HELP—Unique building program has been started at Wilmington, O., college. Here students and faculty members have pledged their labor to construct a new 75-man residence hall. 2 Builders Plan Eight Residences

Tags Issued Here For $10,000 Homes

Eight building permits for $10,000 and $12,000 four-and-one-half room residences have been issued by the city to two Mansfield contractors.

Five permits were issued to William Auer, 184 Ausdale avenue, for frame and brick veneer residences at 21, 27, 33, 36 and 39 Shady lane. The houses each will cost $12,000.

J. R. Cogen, 808 Maple street, received building permits for the construction of three brick veneer residences at 642, 648 and 652 Yale drive. Cost of the four-and-one-half room houses was estimated by Cogen at $10,000 each.

Auer is the contractor who recently disclosed plans to construct a 68-unit housing project between Harvard and Grasmere avenues, south of Park avenue west. The project would be located about half a mile west of the Shady lane site.

OTHER PERMITS ISSUED

Other permits recently issued by the city include:

John Jundt, 223 West Third street; $7,500, three-room brick veneer residence at 380 Fairlawn avenue. Contractor: self.

Ludwig Schenk, 594 Brae Burn; $14,000, six-room house with attached garage at 598 Brae Burn. Contractor: self.

John Mergel, 394 Fourth avenue, $300 garage at the Fourth avenue address. Contractor: self.

S. B. White, 187 Gerke avenue; $10,000, five-room brick and stone residence at 186 Penn avenue. Contractor: self.

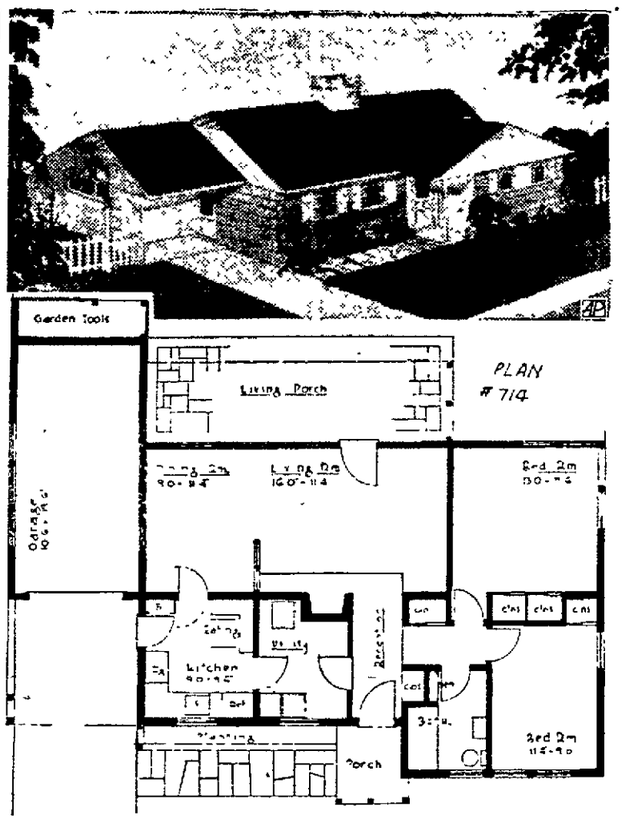
John Gerhardt, 87 Raleigh avenue; $650 garage at the Raleigh avenue address.

G. F. Schonauer, 492 West Fourth street; remodeled residence and basement at 121 West Fourth street at a cost of $1,000. Contractor: self.

Grange To Vote On Applications

A special meeting of Madison Grange has been called for Wednesday to vote on the applications of candidates who are eligible for the degree work, to be exemplified Saturday, April 24, at Lucas high school

It is expected that about 50 candidates will receive the First and Second degrees Saturday



HOME FOR BUDGETEER is what the architect, Walter T. Anicka of Ann Arbor, Mich., calls this Plan No. 714. The house covers an area of only 938 square feet, but it contains a combination living-dining room that is 25 feet long and more than 11 feet wide. A basement can be included by planning a stairway in the utility room. This also would leave space for expanding the kitchen and providing a breakfast nook. The architect suggests gray shingle exterior walls, siding or brick with white trim, a yellow entrance door and a roof of colored asphalt shingles.

Chicago's 'Magnificent Mile' To Include Shops and Offices

CHICAGO—(AP)—Excavation is now under way for the first new unit of Chicago's "Magnificent Mile" of exclusive shops, offices and apartment buildings along upper Michigan avenue.

Extending northward from the Chicago river to Oak street, where Michigan enters the lake shore, the vast building program is expected to cost $200,000,000 and take up to 10 years to complete, says Arthur Rubloff, Chicago real estate man who controls much of the property along the extensive development site.

The first new building will be constructed for Bonwit-Teller, Inc., women's specialty store on a 46,000 square foot plot at Pearson street and Michigan for an estimated $2,000,000 It is scheduled for completion by January 1949.

President Walter Hoving of the Hoving Corporation, owner of Bonwit-Teller, says the ultra-ultra building will be four stories high, faced with Indiana limestone.

Instead of the usual show windows, frontage on both streets will be covered with plate glass, enabling passersby to look directly into the main floor. There will be no street displays of merchandise.

Much of the land now is vacant on both sides of the avenue, with a mixture of decrepit 19th century mansions, modern office buildings and hotels in between the spaces

Most famous of the old structures are the water tower and pumping station at Chicago and Michigan avenue. These were the only important buildings left standing after fire destroyed the young city in 1871.

The over-all architectural plan for the "Mile" proposes medium-height buildings on Michigan avenue for shops and stores and taller structures at the rear for office buildings, hotels, and apartment dwellings. Landscaped promenades would run between the avenue buildings and the taller structures, enhancing the "openness" of the development and avoiding the "canyons" of the closely built downtown section.

King and Queen of England To Mark 25th Anniversary

LONDON —(AP)— Modestly, by royal standards, yet with some flashes of old time pomp, King George and Queen Elizabeth will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary April 26.

Escorted by the household cavalry in resplendent full dress and gleaming silver helmet, they will drive in state coaches with Princess Elizabeth, Prince Philip and Princess Margaret from Buckingham palace to St. Paul's Cathedral for a morning service—the day's principal event.

They will be joined there by Queen Mary, heading a separate procession from Marlborough house, her official residence. Lining much of the route will be detachments from army, navy, marines and air force.

Later, the king and queen, together with other members of the royal family, may receive tributes of the crowds from the balcony of Buckingham palace.

There may also be an evening drive, an informal one in an open motorcar, through bomb-scarred parts of London, especially the east end, thickly populated by the poor.

New Type of Patron

Drive-In Theaters Boom

NEW YORK—(AP)—Things are looking up for the family with a car but no baby-sitter.

Drive-in theaters are booming. They now number about 220 around the country, according to the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc. That is double the prewar figure

All along the line in the movie trade, the attitude toward outdoor theaters is changing. They used to be regarded as orphans, experimental freaks, a temporary fad. But the war changed that because millions of GIs watched and enjoyed movies under the open sky, in all kinds of weather and distractions.

Fifty more drive-ins are expected to be built this year although costs for the average 500-car theater have risen from $75,000 to between $150,000 and $200,000, says the Hollywood Reporter. Before long the total national figure is expected to reach 500, and while that's far short of the number of conventional theaters (18,000), it does represent progress.

Weather is not proving as great a restriction as was expected. Outdoor theaters now are scattered over 35 states. Massachusetts and Ohio, neither of which is noted for a warm, even climate, lead the nation in number of drive-ins, and operators even as far north as Lake George, N. Y., hope to do business until mid-November.

A spokesman for the producers and distributors says the drive-ins are bringing in a "new type of movie patron"—the family usually chained to their home by small children (and no sitters) as well as news fans among the very young, the very old and the shut-ins.

Before the war, the outdoor movies got only pictures which were at least one and two years old. But now, says the producers and distributors group, they are getting comparatively new prints, and there's no better indication that the movie industry is beginning to take them seriously.

The operators of one large chain in Ohio found that only five per cent of their patrons are regular indoor movie fans. Most of them are families who have no one with whom to leave the children. So, like drive-in owners all over the country, they are aiming their sights at the family trade.

Children usually are admitted free, and babies are especially encouraged Many of the theaters, like those in the Ohio chain, provide bottle-warmers. But at the drive-in near Kansas City, Kas., they not only furnish electric milk warmers, they also have nurses and a children's playground sunk below the lower level of the screen.

150 Expected At Moose Party

Approximately 110 members and 40 candidates are expected to attend the annual initiation and stag party of the Moose lodge Tuesday at 8 p. m.

The candidates will be initiated by the Mansfield Degree staff with Governor John Pearce presiding.

New officers of the club were elected April 6

The new officers, who will assume their duties on May 1 and serve until April, 1949, are Edmund T. Pelasky, governor; Jacob E. Herf, junior governor; Vern H. Brandenburg, prelate; George Loch, secretary, and Fred J. Berry, re-elected secretary.

Earl A. McFarland was also elected to serve another 3-year term as trustee.

Realtors' Group Names Williams

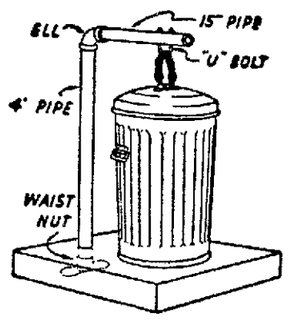
Sydney Williams, 41 Wise avenue, has been named a member of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, John J. Wagner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, president, announced yesterday.

Williams was one of 52 new members appointed in 26 states, lifting the institute's total membership roll to 8,920. The institute is an affiliate organization of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Inexpensive Unit Protects Refuse, Discourages Rats

Would you believe that the average home boards from one to five rats? And that rats damage or destroy two billion dollars' worth of food and property each year?

Home owners often have difficulty keeping covers on garbage cans—they are either lost or damaged. If you are faced with this problem, you can solve it by constructing the unit shown.



The unit consists of 5¼ feet of 1-inch pipe, a 1-inch waist nut, a 1-inch malleable ell, a ¼ inch "U" bolt, a length of chain and enough cement for a square base about 4 inches deep and a few inches larger than the base of the can used. Set upright pipe, which may vary in length, into 3 inches of the cement. Assemble other parts as indicated.

Engineering In Lighting

Daylight engineering is a definite trend in the building industry to attain more adequate daylight in structures of all kinds. Windows, skylights and other glassed-in openings are used in such a way as to provide homes, factories, schools, hospitals, stores and other buildings with the most efficient natural illumination possible.

The haphazard placement of windows and other openings without regard to the shape and size of areas to be illuminated or the requirements of the people inside the building is a thing of the past in modern design.

Architects and designers now have data on the relationship of glass area to the required level of illumination and are well acquainted with the function of the various types of glass. This permits them to plan natural illumination to fit almost any kind of requirement.

A big boost to daylight engineering was the development of Thermopane, a multiple glass unit with a dehydrated air space hermetically sealed between the panes. This unit, which provides a high degree of insulation, has permitted the use of larger glass areas without excessive heat loss.

It is usually made from transparent glass, as in the case of picture windows for homes, but may include a combination of special glasses to solve specific illumination problems.

Sewing Sisters Club Picks Officers

Maxine McCarron was elected president of the Sewing Sisters 4-H club at a meeting at the British school. Other officers are: Catherine Garver, vice president; Jeannine Thompson, secretary, and Iris Stone, treasurer. Norma Fay Thrush was chosen reporter. Project plans for the year were discussed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Jeannine Thompson April 28.

Knockdown Wins Race, Stymie 3rd

NEW YORK — (AP) — Knockdown, a disappointment in the 1946 Kentucky Derby, bounced back into the nation's turf picture yesterday.

Taking the lead at the start and holding it all the way the Main Chance farm's five-year-old paid $55.10 for $2 in winning the $25,000-added Excelsior handicap at Jamaica before 50,583.

The Discovery-Bride Elect horse finished half a length ahead of the 8-5 favorite, Double Jay. Stymie, the world's leading money winner who was making his 1948 debut, finished third, three lengths further back.

Knockdown, who won the Santa Anita derby in February, 1946, but then failed in the '46 Derby and the Preakness, was making his second start of the year after a long layoff. He finished out of the money to Buzfuz, Owners Choice and Tavistock in a six-furlong sprint here on April 8.

Knockdown earned $20,750 by his victory. He paid $16.30 to place and $7.30 to show. Double Jay returned $3.30 and $2.40. The Stymie entry paid $3.00 to show. Time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:46.

Stymie picked up $2,500 third money and now has won a total of $818,560.

Springfielders Win Mansfield Relays

picked up 10 points and eleventh place.

Rytell, Pennsylvania state mile champ, copped the Relays' mile in the fast time of 4:38.8 and whipped across the line second in the 880. Lynn Owens, Dayton Dunbar's defending Ohio champion in the 880, flashed past the tape in 2:01.2, just a tenth of a second faster than Rytell.

Two other Ohio champions duplicated earlier performances. Bob Cooper, Columbus Central, handily copped the 440 while Jarvis soared one inch over six feet to win the high jump. Ronnie Myers, Galion, was second to Cooper in the double-furlong.

Bill Simmons, Akron East's defending champion in both Relays hurdles, notched a second in the lows and a fourth in the highs.

SPRINGFIELD FAVORED

Since the Relays are regarded as the prime testing ground for Ohio high school athletes, Springfield became the odds-on favorite to win the Buckeye state title. Last year, Springfield won the Ohio Wesleyan relays and will be favored to repeat in the Delaware event.

Mansfield John Simpson grabbed a third place in the 880-yard junior high school relay which was won by Akron South. Sixteen teams competed and Akron's time of 1:40.5 will go into the books as a record. The junior highs previously had completed over the 440-yard distance.

Gene Sarazen's Team Wins Odd Specialty Golf Match

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va —(AP)—A couple of golf specialists exchanged roles Saturday to lead a team captained by Gene Sarazen to an easy 5-3 victory over Walter Hagen's squad in the one-day Cavalier Specialists match.

Bobby Locke, the South African who was chosen for his putting ability bowed on the greens to Herman Keiser of Akron, and concentrated on short, accurate approaches.

Largely because these two did so well, the Sarazen team led all the way, equalling par on the out nine and shading it by three strokes coming home. They played out the bye holes, picking up a medal score of 66. Par for the short, tree-lined coure is 69. The Hagen team scored 37-37—74.

The match, a golfing oddity tried yesterday for the first time, entertained about 3,000 spectators but didn't prove a thing. The players on the seven-man teams supposedly were chosen for their special abilities at certain kinds of shots, but before they got through everybody got into the act and the team captains seemed to be calling on anybody without regard to their specialties.

SARAZEN HAS 68

And individually four players did as well or better Friday in the first round of medal play than they did collectively in the two-ball contest. In Friday's opening round of the 54-hole medal play tourney which is combined with the specialists match. Sarazen shot a record-equalling 63, Keiser had 65, Jim Ferrier and Dick Metz 66's.

Some wild driving by siege gun Jimmy Thomson, Lawson Little and Jimmy Demaret proved costly to the Hagen's and Little, chosen as the trouble man for the team, was kept busy trying to recover from the woods.

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 18.

Sunday's horoscope emphasizes the value of indulging in either prompt action, or better yet, in keen intellectual consideration of impending and urgent moves, in which change, travel, communications, or writings may be productive. In reflection or deep study of prospects, it is probable that a very bright lead, a possible creative urge or a stroke of genius, could bring forth a dramatic impulse for action, with surprise, elation, joy or romantic adventure resulting. Thought before action is the routine.

A child born on this day is richly endowed with creative ideas and urges, promising an intellectual, scientific and perhaps spectacular career, attaining place in the limelight.

For Monday, April 19

Monday's astrological forecast holds definite auguries for the richest fulfillments of the highest hopes and wishes. This in business ventures, financial status, credit, professional and social life, with the happy combination inviting to all sorts of festivities and celebrations to mark the special occasion. It is a time for launching all ambitious projects and worthy programs, and for making concentrated efforts for promotion and honors, as those in influence and authority are approachable. Romance and "parties" in domestic and social affairs should also rise to gray levels of joy and fruition.

A child born on this day may be said to have really made its appearance with the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." Every advantage and culmination of prosperity, happiness and good fortune are its heritage.

Vote Heavy As Italian Polls Open

Outcome Awaited By Entire World

for 32 hours before the opening of the polls at 8 a. m. Sunday (1 a. m., Eastern Standard Time, Saturday). But police forces could not put an end to the incessant arguments on curbstone and in cafe.

Scelba in a closing speech Friday night said "the government will be on the watch—if the liberty of the vote should be compromised, it would not hesitate to take the most radical measures, even the suspension of the elections."

But there seemed no likelihood such drastic action would have to be taken.

The government preparations apparently had impressed Palmiro Togliatti, whose lieutenants have boasted of "tens of thousands of partisan-trained youths" ready to act at their call.

Told of Scelba's warning, Togliatti said "there ought not to be any trouble, and there will not be because we have all undertaken to respect the electoral liberty of the Italian people."

A communique from the executive committee of the communist-socialist popular front declared its "solemn undertaking" to respect the ballot box result.

SEARCH GOES ON

Nevertheless the ceaseless search for hidden arms went on and netted 164 tommyguns, 47 rifles, and a huge store of bullets and explosives at Caserta, Pesaro, Cavriano and Faenza in the south and red north.

The communist newspaper L'Unita warned followers that the government intended to "arrest numerous workers of the front on pretexts of contraventions, provocations and outrages" to prevent their voting. It called on leftists not to lend themselves to panic or disorders.

Scelba again charged that the communist mayor of Genoa had issued 30,000 false voting certificates, including three to Soviet citizens in the Russian consulate.

The government banned sale of alcoholic drinks stronger than wine, beer and a weak cocktail from Saturday midnight on.

Admits Theft When Asked About Mother

A 53-year-old Mansfield laborer yesterday faced a grand larceny charge at Miami Beach, Fla., in the theft of $11,000 from a New York woman.

Detective Supt. Charles W. Pierce of Miami Beach said that Stephen S. Enoff admitted walking off with money given him by a trusting winter visitor.

Pierce said Enoff made his admission after he was asked: "Didn't your mother teach you to tell the truth?"

Mrs. Julia Grech of New York said she gave the money to Enoff while she went for a dip in the ocean March 28. The money was her husband's life savings, and it was in a money belt, she said.

Pierce quoted Enoff as originally saying he won the money at the dog races.

Bernats To Leave Mansfield July 1 For Pacific Coast

By NITA BRANSON

John Bernat, Mansfield artist, and his wife, Martha, a sculptress, will leave Mansfield July 1 to establish their home in the Los Angeles area.

Bernat said he and his family are leaving because Mansfield "has not provided the necessary cultural encouragement to make it possible for us to stay."

The Bernats came to Mansfield four years ago to paint murals and to carve the 14 stations for St. Peter's Catholic church.

"We liked then what we saw of Mansfield and decided after a year to make the city our home," Bernat said yesterday. "In 1946 I took out my citizenship papers here, and that same year, we bought 10 acres at Greter's lake and planned to make it our home.

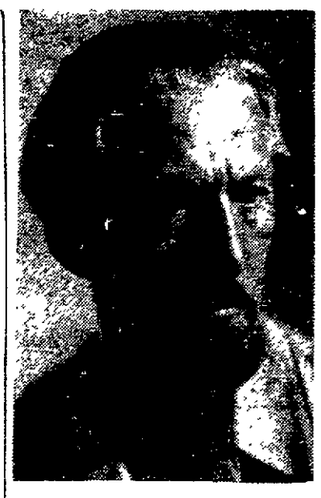
"But," he added ruefully, "the city has failed to provide us with a living. After all, I am an artist. This is my work and that is the way I must make my living, and I simply can't do it here. I have a family to keep and it is impossible.

EXPLAINS DECISION

"Maybe, it is because Mansfield is too far from the big cities," Bernat said. "Maybe it is because it is too much of a business city. I do not know. But I know that I cannot make a decent living for my wife and children here."

Mrs. Bernat has been studying at the University of Syracuse under the famed sculptor, Evon Mestrovic. She will finish in June and return to Mansfield to make plans for leaving for Los Angeles.

When they leave Mansfield,



JOHN BERNAT

Bernat plans to travel for three or four months painting landscapes. Mrs. Bernat has several offers in Los Angeles, the home of her mother.

During their four years here, the Bernats have helped establish the Mansfield Fine Arts Guild, which holds its third exhibition in May. Bernat is aiding the City Recreation department in teaching art to Mansfield school children.

"I regret leaving Mansfield, Bernat said, "I like the city. We're keeping our place at Greter's lake. Maybe some day when we are older we'll come back here and make our home."

Greer Gets Mental Test

Psychiatrist To Check Accused Man

Clarence Greer, indicted on two counts of first-degree murder, will be given a mental examination Tuesday by Dr. R. E. Bushong, superintendent of the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. Greer, 31, is held in the county jail.

Prosecutor Theodore Lutz said yesterday he had arranged for the examination by Dr. Bushong, a psychiatrist, with the consent of the defense attorneys.

The trial is scheduled to start Thursday morning in common pleas court. It has been rescheduled from April 22 when the defense attorneys asked for additional time to prepare Greer's defense.

Lutz said he arranged for the examination because he was preparing the state's case with the possibility in mind that there may be a pleas of not guilty by reason of insanity.

Greer is charged in the shot-gun slaying of Mrs. Ella Owens, 31, and her brother, Ezell Taylor, 35, tenants in his home at 203 East Fourth street. The two were shot and killed in adjoining rooms at the house on Feb. 9.

WOMEN KNOW COLORS

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass.—(U.P.)—About 4 per cent of men are color blind, compared with only three-tenths of one per cent of women, Dr. Paul Boeder of the American Optical Co. so reports after a series of color preception tests.

Bathroom Variety 'Collar' Gives Sea Lion 'New Look'

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— A sea lion living near the San Francisco beach has moved up—uncomfortably—to the white collar class.

He did it simply by sticking his head through a floating toilet seat.

The sea lion is one of the big herd that inhabits Seal Rocks, a few yards off the beach.

Where "Buster"—that's what Cliff House hotel balcony observers call him—found the bathroom fixture is a mystery. The adornment is of the horseshoe type, and a gleaming white.

Spectators can't agree on whether he's wearing it by choice, or can't get the thing off.

IT'S BIG PROBLEM

Other seals at first shunned "Buster," then clustered around to nibble enviously at his new collar.

The SPCA, coast guard and navy all pondered the problem of what will happen to "Buster" now, but reached no conclusion.

Dr. Robert T. Orr, curator of mammals of the California Academy of Sciences, said the collar ought to be removed, but there's a chance "Buster" will get along all right anyway—barring a nervous breakdown.

The major handicap: "Buster" can't swim so fast after food.

Remarked the SPCA: "How would we get out there to get it off?"

Galion Women Sew For Child Center

GALION — Most of the time was spent in sewing for the Child care center when members of the Ladies' Guild met Friday at First Presbyterian church. A short business session was conducted by Mrs. M. F. Engard and devotions were led by Mrs. Frances McBerty. Hostesses in charge of the supper which was served were: Mrs. F. S. Long, Mrs. J. B. Sweeney, Mrs. J. E. Garverick, and Mrs. A. H. Newhouse.

Death Claims Mary Tyler

Mrs. Mary E. Tyler of Lincoln Heights, widow of Edward Tyler, died Saturday at Mansfield General hospital after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Tyler was born in Galion but spent the greater part of her life in Mansfield. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Surviving are one brother, Joseph Unterwagner of Galion, and several nephews and nieces.

The body is at the Wappner Funeral home, where services will be held Tuesday at 1 p. m. in charge of Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

His friends "jumped the gun" a little on James Bailey's birthday by celebrating a couple of days in advance. But Bailey, who is four-score years o' today, will hav. a quiet family dinner at the home of his son, Harvey Bailey just the same. Bailey, a Mansfield business man for many years, retired several years ago after serving as treasurer of the Franklin Finance company for 17 years. In spite of his 80 years, Bailey is still active and interested in civic affairs.

Ex-Resident Of City Dies

Mrs. Berno, who lived in Mansfield for 20 years, moved to California 10 years ago.

She is survived by two sons, Carl, of Detroit and Rexford of Los Angeles and one daughter, Mrs. Edward Campbell, Toronto, Canada. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Planes Begin China Flights

OAKLAND, Calif.—(AP)—The first of 150 C-46 twin-engined planes purchased from the U. S. government by the Chinese national government air force will begin the flight to China today.

Transocean airlines will ferry the planes. It will take six or seven months to deliver all of them.

The C-46s—Curtis Commandos—cost the U. S. approximately $200,000 each, and reportedly were sold to China for $5,000 each. Ferrying alone will cost China in excess of $1,000,000, Ray Elsmore executive vice-president of Transocean, said.

East, West Seek Control Of Americas

Communists Blamed For Social Unrest

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

SANTIAGO, Chile —(AP)— Latin America has become a front in the cold war between the East and the West in the opinion of the Chilean government.

Diplomatic observers here believe the communists are trying to profit from political and social unrest in many Central and South American republics to prevent the formation of an anti-Russian bloc in the western hemisphere.

Communists may have overplayed their hand in last weekend's revolutionary rioting in Bogota, Colombia, but the danger of communist-inspired trouble persists, the informants say. In Santiago there are no pro-Soviet diplomats.

There have been reports of communist plotting from various Latin American countries. The communists are blamed for much of the violence in Bogota's riots in which 300 persons were reported killed.

BRAZIL ALERT

They are accused of trying to wreck trains and power plants in Chile. In Brazil the federal police blame the communists for the explosion at an army arsenal Thursday. They say the blast was intended as the beginning of a communist plot for a "second Bogota" in Rio De Janeiro on May day.

Twenty-four persons are known to have lost their lives in the explosion. The police have arrested 80 persons, including two former army officers, Antonio Rollemberg and Trifino Correa.

Both men are communists. Rollemberg was charged with being the leader of the alleged plot. Corrêa is a former Brazilian congressman.

Communists are fighting in Costa Rica's civil war. They are said to have started out supporting the government but apparently have gotten out of hand.

DANGER APPARENT

How many bullets have been fired and flames lighted by communists in Bogota and elsewhere? Some informants in Santiago believe the number of incidents may be exaggerated. But they doubt that the danger of communist disorder has been over-emphasized.

If the communists are not starting trouble they seem to take a leading part when trouble breaks out. The Chilean government says the communist party's basic aim is to keep Latin-American nations out of an anti-Soviet bloc, weaken them in case the cold war develops into a shooting war and undermine them for an eventual chance to gain power for the communists themselves.

Chile has asked the Pan-American conference in Bogota to adopt a resolution recommending that all the American republics collaborate in suppressing "subversive activities." Chile's avowed aim is to line up western hemisphere nations against what she calls Soviet Russia's fifth columns.

Brazil and Paraguay already have outlawed communism. Chile's congress meets next Tuesday to consider the same action. Other countries may follow suit.

September," Wolford said yesterday.

"We want to enlarge our clinical work already established and to aid in cancer research. This means that more and more people will be examined in the clinic as time goes on. But to achieve this program, we must have the help and encouragement of every man and woman in Mansfield and Richland county."

Pointing up the opening of the drive tomorrow, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn issued a proclamation yesterday in which he urged all citizens to devote some of their time, money and energy to the local cancer drive.

Support Urged

"The people of our city have always shown a progressive attitude toward all worthy public enterprises," Mayor Vaughn said.

"I feel sure that every citizen will take an active part in aiding the cancer drive in a vital program which may save the lives of our friends and neighbors. Cancer may strike in any home. For the sake of the suffering, we must give everything we can to this campaign."

Eight members of the Beta Phi Mu sorority have distributed 240 cancer coin boxes to Mansfield business establishments.

Wolford said that all persons distributing the boxes have letters of identification to show when they pick up the boxes.

Members of the sorority in charge of the coin boxes are Mrs. Dolan Goodner, chairman; Mrs. Manning Perkins, Mrs. Waldo Dillon, Mrs. Virginia Gerhart, Mrs. James Dopps, Miss Jeanette Baker, Miss Betty Jona and Miss Helen Groman.

Greek Army Forces Crush Roving Unit Of Guerrillas

LAMIA, Greece—(AP)—Greek army troops were reported last night to have killed, wounded or captured virtually all the members of a guerrilla force of 700 men in a mountain trap in central Greece.

The entrapment was part of a spring drive by Greek regulars in a guerrilla-infested territory of 2,000 square miles. Greek commanders are said to have committed 20,000 to 30,000 troops to the fighting. It is believed there are about 4,000 communist-led rebels in the area.

Greek army chieftains are maintaining a complete news blackout on the offensive. They said their men have not yet made contact with the main guerrilla units.

Accounts of the entrapment were obtained from peasants who arrived today from the village of Kapsi, 30 miles to the west. They said the rebels unwittingly stumbled into Greek commando units guarding passes in the Mount Tymphristo region.

Drizzling rain and clouds which covered Oiti, Vardoussia and Ghiona mountains kept the Greek air force on the ground. It was perfect guerrilla weather. Fear was expressed by informants that some of the rebels might filter out of the area.

MOVE NORTHWARD

There has been a guerrilla movement northward toward Agrapha the last few days. One military source said there were six rebel battalions in the Agrapha area and three more probably reached the area before the Greek army's operation got under way. One of these battalions was composed entirely of women with the exception of the leader, the informant said.

Lamia, 90 miles northwest of Athens, is the headquarters of Lt. Gen. Thrasivoulos Tsakalotes, commander of the Greek first corps who is directing the operation.

The Greek chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Dimitrios Yadjis, came from Athens Saturday and conferred with Tsakalotos and Maj. Gen. Petzopoulos, first division commander, at the village of Gravia south of here.

There has been a heavy movement of troops and supplies along the Lamia-Athens highway and along roads to the west.

The territory under attack extends northward from the Gulf of Corinth with the western extremity touching Agrinion.

Child Killed; Boy Accused

NAPA, Calif. —(AP)— A murder charge was placed Saturday against 13-year-old Richard Thompson, accused of the sex slaying of a 6-year-old girl.

Police Chief Eugene Riordan signed the first degree murder complaint.

The nude body of the little girl was recovered from a muddy creek here after an all-night search.

Several hours before, Richard had been seized by police. Pupils at the school where he is in the sixth grade told officers they had seen him riding his bicycle toward the creek, with Verna on the handlebars.

Coroner Charles Burchell said the youngster had been subjected to "great force and violence," then drowned.

Chief Riordan told reporters that young Thompson, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and weighing 160 pounds, had admitted the slaying and told of having taken sexual liberties with the little girl two days prior to Friday's attack.

Richard will be arraigned in superior court here at 11 a. m. Monday, the same hour set for the funeral services for Verna.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Purchase of Bond-a-Month Urged

ACROSS THE NATION, the Security Loan campaign is under way. It is part of the program to fight inflation by continuing the sale of U. S. Savings bonds. In the Mansfield area, banks have taken over the campaign—with industries being encouraged to reinstitute the payroll deduction plan for systematic savings through regular purchase of bonds.

The purchase of U. S. Savings bonds at this time serves a double purpose. It takes out of circulation money that might be carelessly spent, helping to boost prices still further. Even more important, buying bonds means additional personal security to men, women, and children.

Bonds are an ideal way to put money aside for times when the going is tough. Indeed, bonds are one of the best forms of insurance against the return of a depression or against the squeeze of a depression if one should occur.

The Security Loan committee recommends purchase of a bond a month as the ideal way of saving. In wartime, many persons proved this to be an eminently satisfactory system of laying money aside. Don't neglect your opportunity, along with millions of other Americans, to take advantage of this systematic savings plan.

As a footnote, it might be added that Americans will be watching their government, too, to see that the money thus put aside is not poured back into circulation through reckless federal spending which holds as much a key to inflation as does a moderate amount of excess purchasing power among the citizens.

Higher Education Lowers Birth Rate

DR. CLARENCE J. GAMBLE, in the current number of the Journal of Heredity, gives figures to prove that college-educated people are failing to reproduce themselves.

A survey of 29 colleges showed that men graduating in 1922 had produced 1.72 children each, and women leaving college the same year averaged 1.25 children each. These are the people, Dr. Gamble says, who should furnish specialists able to cope with this intricate technological age.

He gives as reasons for the falling birthrate among highly educated people the high cost of children, the fact that children interfere with the pursuit of success, and, among women, the fact that their education tends to turn them away from homemaking as a career.

Among these reasons, the expense of raising children alone seems convincing. The medical care of a child becomes more elaborate and expensive year by year. The average family's bills for inoculations and for vitamins alone is very large. The toddler, many parents think, must go to nursery school before taking up public education. Dancing lessons are considered desirable, if not necessary. These three items, at least, were no part of the life of the child of the Yale graduate of the 1700's, who is quoted as having a minimum of five children.

Canada's solution of this problem consists of a subsidy for each child above a certain number, and there are many large families in Canada. In most of Canada, also, some of these modern expenses are not considered necessary.

Treating Alcoholism as Disease

"SOCIETY'S expensive court case drunks; repeatedly in and out of jail, should be given a chance for cures in colonies outside the stresses that drive them back to drink. Alcoholism is on the increase, and is a public health job."

These sentiments were expressed at a recent session on alcoholism in Columbus, attended by members of the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism, workers in the Yale Plan Clinic, court room judges and social workers.

Alcoholics, it was pointed out, are now considered a type of mentally ill, who have low resistance to social friction and an instinct to escape the most minor troubles. Publicly supported hospital beds and clinics should be opened to them since few places are available for treatment except expensive private institutions.

Society is waking to a new diagnosis and obligation on an old problem. Alcoholism is now viewed not as a moral matter, but as a disease, and its control as a public responsibility. This is a sound approach, long needed.

But it is also sound to remember that self-control as a desirable method of living can be taught in childhood, and can then be applied to alcohol as well as to other temptations that destroy strength, happiness and a balance of life if indulged.

Modern psychology is doing splendid work the value of which should not be underestimated. But sometimes it has a tendency to lay the causes of all ills to outside influences, and to place too little emphasis on the power and possibilities of training inner strength.

Some Jobs Well Suited To Older Men

SINCE the war's ending, with the consequent re-conversion in many lines of work and the complete stoppage in others, many men 40 years of age and older have found themselves out in the cold.

An organization in Chicago is finding places for many of these older men formerly of executive or administrative rank. The Men Over Forty club has placed 700 members in executive positions, and its president, T. Harvey Gilmour, told an interviewer that industrial leaders are finding a need for many persons of mature judgment and experience. There is always a market for proven ability, performance, and accomplishment, according to Gilmour.

This is true not only of men of the caliber needed for executive posts. An organization performing the same service for the rank and file of workers would undoubtedly find that many supervisory jobs and others requiring not speed and precision so much as painstaking effort and a background of experience could be filled by men from 40 years old even up into the seventies.

It was Thomas Huxley who explained: "The ring of a ladder was never meant to rest upon, but only to hold a man's foot long enough to enable him to put the other somewhat higher."

A Voice From the Country

World Problems Need Realistic Handling

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

IT MUST be evident to every thinking American that there are at least three important things wrong with the maneuvers of administration and state department. (1) That we have no foreign policy whatever but merely a series of isolated maneuvers dealing with situations as they arise. Every thing, from the Marshall Plan to the recent crisis in Berlin is dealt with as an emergency. (2) That in these maneuvers there is no realism. This, in opposition to the brutal realism of Russia, is our greatest weakness.

BROMFIELD

(3) That we have never really sat down with the Russians and said, "Now, this is the way the world is. Let's settle it between us and get about the business of peace and production and civilization. You need time until you can develop your vast self-contained empire, and we want to be let alone to go on building in our own way. How shall we divide the world into two zones of influence and get ahead with peace."

The startling thing is that Franklin D. Roosevelt may have had just this in mind, even when he made the concessions at Yalta and Teheran.

The writer cannot be accused of being an unqualified admirer of Mr. Roosevelt but the late president did possess vision and qualities of leadership which are sadly missing in our government today. We shall never know what he really believed or planned, for in many ways he was a secretive man, and rightly enough, could not place confidence in many of the men who surrounded him.

* * *

Each Needs Other.

THIS business of realism in dealing with Russia is of the utmost importance. We are living in a world in which there are only two great powers, both of them capable of dominating and controlling any other nations within reach.

The entire world is today economically dependent upon Russia and the United States upon Russia because of her immense man power, real wealth and potential industrial development, upon the United States for financing for industrial production and for the means of obtaining food and raw materials.

We could with advantage, try now and then to understand Russia's point of view. For at least five centuries, Russia has consistently sought warm water ports as an outlet to the world. Out of long experience, she has genuine reason to fear foreign aggression and seek the establishment of satellite buffer states. She needs time and peace to develop.

No one knows better than the men of the Kremlin that a war could ruin Russia and bring about a series of war lords, each governing a fragment of Russia. She cannot yet afford democracy or free enterprise any more than Great Britain can afford it, for democracy is essentially a luxury in the sense of national economy, literacy and for many reasons.

The domination of Eastern Europe by Russia was bound to come one day for the future of the world belongs to nations with great unified land masses, great populations, great interior markets and great manpower.

In this modern, shrunken world, the other nations are certain to become subsidiaries of one or the other of the two great corporations and have, indeed, already become so.

Nearly all of our planning, whatever it has been, and all our actions have been predicated upon a world which no longer exists. Men like John Foster Dulles propose actions in terms of the Nineteenth Century as if the British Empire were still a great world power and France a dominant world factor. The brutal fact is that all other nations but Russia and the U. S. have become, not second class, but third-class powers.

This fact may hurt nationalist feelings but we shall never have world peace and security until we deal with the world as it is. We shall only muddle and eventually destroy ourselves economically by kidding ourselves and the world.

It is absolutely clear and becomes clearer each day that the time is not yet for a United Nations or indeed any form of world government. It is even clearer that if there is no peace between the U. S. and Russia there is no peace (period) and that if there is peace between these two nations there is peace everywhere. For the moment the rest does not matter very much.

* * *

New Approach Needed.

IT SEEMS to me that if this government and Russia sat down together and said, "Let's decide where you belong and where I belong and then go to work building the world," it would be the greatest possible step forward.

I think such an agreement should include for Russia, the Balkans, Czechoslovakia, Poland — perhaps Austria and all of Korea —guaranteed access by signed treaty to the Mediterranean by way of the Bosporus. The rest of the world might well be left to us. But, and this is a large but, every possible effort toward trade should be encouraged. Such a program demands not concessions but agreement without the complications of dead Nineteenth Century imperialist politics.

If we agreed, I believe the international "communist" menace would fade away, the iron curtain would rust and as living standards rose in Russia, that nation would begin to develop democracy and perhaps even free enterprise.

This can never happen so long as so much of our government and its direction is in the hands of military men whose whole training is to deal with emergencies rather than policy, and whose whole point of view is essentially that of destruction rather than construction, or while men are dominant whose chief motive, concealed, unconscious or otherwise, is to re-establish a Nineteenth Century world in which they can sell worthless foreign bonds to the American people at a 10 per cent commission. And in the midst of this is Mr. Truman, a pawn who understands little if anything of what goes on in the great world.

It is just possible that all this is what Mr. Roosevelt had in mind. It is a tragedy that we shall probably never know. Neither Russia nor the U. S. can defeat each other. Any war will bring both down in ruin. Neither nation has thus far really sought the solution in terms of reality. We have only played about with dangerous emergencies which can in the end ruin both of us.

THE new world is being formed by forces beyond the control of any nation or nations. The past is gone forever and nothing will bring it back. We must deal with the world as it is. Therein lies our only hope. War means simply unqualified disaster for all.

U. S. Air Force Penetrates Britain's Net

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—In maneuvers over Great Britain, the Air Force has demonstrated its ability to slip a bombing mission of B-29 super fortresses through the equivalent of Russia's defenses. Lieut. Gen. Curtis Le May, Air Force chief in Europe, arranged with the Royal Air Force to send a mock mission against Britain's tight intercepter and radar net. Because of long experience during the war, the British net is supposed to be the most efficient in the world. However, the B-29s not only broke through to their target, but most of them were never detected.

PEARSON

Secret of the American success was altitude. The big forts flew in at ceiling of 35,000 feet.

As a result of the maneuvers, Air Force strategists are convinced that the "iron curtain" around the Soviet could never stop a high-flying mission of B-29s, especially since Russia's defenses are stretched out over thousands of miles, compared to the relatively small area defended by Britain.

Note—The joint British-American maneuvers were pulled off by General Le May without orders from Washington.

Locomotives To Russia.

ALERT War Assets Administrator Jess Larson has stepped in to block the sale to Finland of 30 locomotives, built during the war for broad-gauged Russian railroad tracks.

Larson reported to presidential adviser John Steelman that he suspected the Finns of fronting for Russia, and got White House permission to hold up the sale.

Before Larson stepped in, however, the Finns had already bought up six locomotives at $6,200 each. For the remaining 30, they were prepared to go as high as $50,000 each—an indication of how badly Russia needs rolling stock.

Larson now plans to offer the locomotives to Western Europe under the European Recovery Program.

Jobs Grease Machines.

ED FLYNN, boss of the Bronx, ex-chairman of the Democratic national committee and one of the men who put Harry Truman across as vice president, has decided to stick with Harry for another round.

To insiders this is big news. For Ed Flynn, more than almost any other Democratic leader, has groused and growled, fumed and fussed at Truman's leadership. Several times he has threatened to bolt. Once he said he wasn't going near the White House any more.

Despite all this, Ed has finally sent word to Democratic Chairman McGrath that he will stick.

Behind this, insiders suspect, is the same thing influencing other standpat Democrats—patronage. Unless they go along with Truman, they are cut off from the thing that greases political machines—jobs.

Ed Flynn, incidentally, got one juicy, all-important job just a short time ago. After considerable pressure he secured the appointment of Paul Rowen to the Securities and Exchange Commission. Rowen is known to be ready to vote for Ed Hanrahan to become chairman of the SEC, and Hanrahan, in turn, is also a friend of Flynn's.

This will give the Flynn law firm, which handles considerable Wall Street practice, two friends on the commission which governs Wall Street.

Note—It was after the White House appointed Rowen to the SEC that Flynn decided to stick with Truman.

One-Man Dictatorship.

IN ADDITION to the excellent job done by Senator Bridges in smoothing John L. Lewis's ruffled hair, Congress might give some thought to the most undemocratic part of Lewis's setup—his failure to hold real mine elections.

Unlike the United Auto Workers, the Electrical Workers, and various other unions which stage tough election battles annually, the United Mine Workers hasn't had any real election for years.

Once or twice rival mine leaders have tried to oppose Lewis, only to be ostracised or beaten up. Gradually, therefore, all leaders with views of their own have drifted out of the mine union—John Brophy, Phil Murray, Van Bittner, Allan Haywood and Dan MacDonald. Lewis now stands serene and alone, the supreme dictator of the miners. There is no one in Washington headquarters to challenge him.

Furthermore, Lewis also keeps tight hold over every district leader. And woe unto any rank-and-file member of the union who revolts against a district leader. His life is made miserable.

Only hope for breaking up the Lewis dictatorship is a law permitting minority groups of miners to petition the National Labor Relations Board to hold district elections or even national elections in the United Mine Workers. Many miners resented the current coal strike, but there was nothing they could do about it. If they could stage free elections, however, Lewis would do more consulting with his own men before throwing both their economy and the nation's out of whack.

DeWitt Mackenzie's Column

Hot Spots In Cold War

A READER of this column raises the query of whether it is possible for Russia and the United States—the world's greatest powers—to live side by side without engaging in war to see who's who.

In short, the reader wants to know whether the world is big enough to hold both countries. That's a fair question, and not too hard to answer. The Soviet Union and America—the former supported by its communized bondmen and the latter allied with the democracies—already are at war.

To be sure we call it a "cold war," but it isn't so cold when you check up the long string of such bloody upheavals as that which has just hit Colombia.

Of course our reader may have been thinking in terms of the cold war being finished and of the two titans eyeing each other across the Atlantic for perhaps more likely across the top of the world). However I don't believe that is the way it's going to work out.

This cold war was started by Russia — a carefully calculated plan aimed at the communization of the world. Actually it's nothing new but it has been going on since the bolshevist revolution of 1917, and it isn't going to stop until communism butts its head against a solid wall of democracy.

The Red aggression in Europe went swimmingly so long as it was operating in the eastern portion dominated by the Russian armies. Now, however, it has come up to the open plains of democracy, and there certainly are signs that the democracies, with the essential aid of the Marshall Plan, are throwing across central Europe a barrier which may halt the Red sweep.

What Will Italy Do?

THERE are dangerous spots in western Europe. One of them is Italy, with its powerful Communist party, and the anxiously awaited results of today's national elections may disclose the extent of the communist threat.

However, the general situation on the western end of the continent looks vastly better than it did even a couple of months ago, due chiefly to American aid and backing.

Thus the communist offensive in western Europe may be slowed to a crawl and even halted, so that no more countries can be taken over by strong-arm methods as in the case of Czechoslovakia.

Meantime the United States, Canada and numerous other countries of the Western Hemisphere are taking energetic action to protect themselves against Red agents and fellow travelers. The position in the Orient shows no marked change, the gravest situation being the Chinese civil war.

Still, despite setbacks, the Russians will continue to press their world revolution, though we have a right to entertain considerable optimism that it will be with decreasing intensity—decreasing because the Reds lack the steam. Meantime, of course, they will consolidate the great theater they have overrun in eastern Europe.

If we are right in our assumptions, then in due course we shall indeed have the position envisaged by our reader, with the world divided into two blocs headed by Russia and America.

Must they fight? It may well be that they won't.

America never will launch a war, and the strength of the United States and the rest of the democratic bloc may be so great that Moscow won't challenge it.

That is, America's strength will be great if Uncle Sam prepares militarily for all contingencies. If he doesn't he will be inviting disaster.

And what will come out of this two-bloc stalemate? Totalitarian communism is an unnatural thing. It clashes with human nature and with all the ideals of folk whose way of life encompasses a belief in God and in man's Bill of Rights.

There are many students of world affairs who believe that communism can't live.

—By KEN WOODMAN

THERE reappears from time to time the popular notion that double letters in a candidate's name help assure his election to the presidency. Quickly, you could cite Roosevelt, Hoover, (Warren) Harding (Harry) Truman, (William) Taft, (Woodrow) Wilson and the Harrisons.

* * *

A check of the full list of 33 presidents reveals, however, that only ten of them had double letters in their names. Apparently you have to have something else to get in the White House. Maybe it's votes.

* * *

Incidentally, anyone fascinated by this name business might be interested to know that there have been five Jameses in the White House, three Williams and an equal number of Johns but—ahem!—never a Robert or a Harold.

'New Look' In Politics

By THOMAS L. STOKES

THERE'S been a good deal said in this critical presidential election year—and with evidence to back it up—that the people are weary and wary of the stock political figure and are looking for something different.

That would seem to explain, at least partly, the General Dwight D. Eisenhower boom which flourishes in both major parties without regard to political ties or labels. There's plenty of the "plague on both your houses," too, in the Henry A. Wallace third party movement.

And now Republican party leaders have discovered suddenly that they have a "new look" problem of their own by two rather convincing demonstrations in the space of a single week.

Reference is to the way Harold Stassen has captivated rank and file voters in successive primaries in two midwestern states—Wisconsin and Nebraska. The tall, strapping fellow looks about upon a battlefield strewn with the shattered shields of some stalwart hopefuls.

By this acid test, which is the test by voters, in representative states, the forty-one-year-old Minnesotan has pushed himself into a position more closely approximating that of a "people's candidate" in his party than since the late Wendell L. Willkie swept into the nomination eight years ago.

The latter, however, did not triumph through primary tests but by the sudden hold he got on the imagination of so many people through a beautifully-timed and well-promoted publicity campaign that he helped along by his own beguiling personality and his ability to say things in a new way. Harold Stassen has worked for what he has got, but has reached about the same favorable position about the same time before the convention.

* * *

BY BOWLING over candidates much more acceptable to the G.O.P Old Guard—and by the voter test—Harold Stassen has made one thing quite certain, and it is a healthy thing for the party and for the people of the nation.

He has made it very difficult, if not impossible, for a G.O.P. Old Guard boss-dictated convention.

Such a prospect had been feared because of the demonstrated weakness of the Democratic party. Victory for Republicans seemed so sure that it had been taken for granted in many quarters that most anybody on the Republican ticket could win.

Harold Stassen represents the more progressive element in his party, both on domestic and international issues. He has big drawing power among younger Republicans and veterans. Because of his proved popularity with the voters, he can now speak with authority at the convention.

The probability of his own nomination is now greatly enhanced. But, even if he doesn't win the nomination, he is in a strategic position to throw his weight against the nomination of a candidate not in keeping with the times and to influence the adoption of a forward looking and progressive platform. He can prevent a "some-filled room" selection by the bosses.

It must be remembered, in assessing the week's results, that it was a double-bill victory for Dewey in Wisconsin and Nebraska four years ago that clinched the 1944 nomination for him. Governor Dewey now seems out of the contest.

Harold Stassen has vindicated the gambler's chance strategy that he adopted to cope with Old Guard hostility to his candidacy. He boldly went over the bosses to the people, a strategy that was found very successful by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The wiseacres scoffed when Stassen announced frankly far in advance that he was a candidate. They took lightly his continuous campaign in which he visited and talked to and with so many people. They smiled at his audacity in opening himself up to questions after every meeting.

It now turns out that lots of people remembered Harold Stassen—at the right time for him. They liked the way he went about his chore.

Politics and Defense Needs.

There appears to be some basis for linking with political fears the current enthusiasm in Congress over the idea of enlarging the air force. Expansion of the nation's air power would offer a way out of a showdown on the touchy issue of universal military training in this election year.

Politics never has a proper place in considerations of defense needs. The important questions of universal training, a temporary draft and building up the air force each should be decided on its merits and not according to which has the greatest or least amount of political appeal.

If a compulsory youth training system is essential to making the country permanently secure, it should be adopted. Certainly the proposal should not be shoved aside simply to take the pressure off individual members of Congress who may be worried about their chances for re-election next November. A straightforward decision on the much-debated plan definitely is in order this year.—Kansas City Times.

As Cerf Tells It

The judge inspected the man on the stand incredulously. "You mean to tell me you have not spoken to your wife in three years? Explain that to the court, if you can." "Yes, sir," said the witness meekly. "My wife does not like to be interrupted."

We Will Forget

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

When fields are green
We will forget
The winter scene,
The storm's harsh threat.

When through the ground
The lilies push,
The lyric sound
Of wren and thrush

Will drown the wind
And still the gale.
The heart resigned
To winter's wail

Will soon explore
With glad rebirth
The springtime store
Of peace on earth.

Fuel-Scarce Railroads Seek More Efficient Power Plants

Researchers Fear Supply Of Oil Short

Electrification Seen As Possible Answer

NEW YORK —(AP)— After the diesels—what?

This seems a far-fetched question at a time when railroads are pushing to the limit their expansion of oil-burning motive power.

But research men are accustomed to look beyond tomorrow. And if some other type will outperform the diesel locomotive, they hope to find it.

Coal strikes and oil shortages give emphasis to their search for more efficient power. But certainly the diesel-electric is undisputed favorite of the railroad industry today.

Already around one-fourth of all switchers and one-tenth of all passenger locomotives are diesels. Of 181 locomotives delivered in the first two months this year all but four were oil burners.

Within a short time, rail officials say, oil burning power plants will haul virtually all through main-line passenger trains.

RESEARCH CONTINUES

But in the face of all this acclaim for the diesel locomotive—even as the raucous blast of its horn becomes commonplace—research men seek even better types. The railroads, locomotive builders and fuel producers are participating.

Steam turbines and gas turbines, burning coal or liquid fuel, are being developed. More efficient power plants will save critically short fuel, and help railroads to curb mounting expenses.

No less a figure in the industry than Gwilym A. Price, president of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, told railroad men here recently:

"With dwindling fuel supply and rising costs, it is not unlikely that railroad electrification will some day come into its own in this country, as it has abroad."

This means power delivered to the locomotive by third rail or overhead trolley, instead of power produced by the engine on the rails.

Limiting factor in the spread of electrified lines, price noted, has been the high cost of power distribution systems.

The electric locomotive itself can be supplied for about 60 per cent of the cost of diesels, he said, while its service records in war or peace have never been excelled.

ELECTRIFICATION HALTED

Many rail men credit diesel development with a part in halting the extension of electrification.

The traditionally coal-burning Pennsy has shifted to diesels in a big way. It recently increased orders for this type to a total of 374 units. President M. W. Clement in the 1947 annual report said "substantial economies" would be obtained, through substitution of diesel power in some operations.

Current backlogs of orders for locomotives are the largest in 25 years, and include more than 1,500 oil burners.

The very expansion of diesel use has helped intensify the oil shortage. Secretary of Interior Krug has asked cities to defer shifts from electric street cars to bus service, until petroleum supplies improve.

Notice that Westinghouse's Price said electrification was likely "some day." Talk of oil depletion could hasten that day just as disrupted coal production has helped the rise of the oil burners.

The banquet also will feature presentation of the historical speech awards and a message from the D.A.R. group by Mrs. Earl B. Padgett of Galion, vice-regent of the Ohio D.A.R.

Bonus Bonds Put to Work

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Most of the $246,000,000 Ohio plans to pay its war veterans will be put to work earning $6,200 a day until time to write the long-awaited bonus checks.

The state sinking fund commission, which administers bonus funds, told State Treasurer Don Ebright yesterday to invest most of the proceeds of a $201,000,000 bond issue in U. S. treasury bills, expected to yield just under one per cent. Ebright said this would net about $5,000 a day in interest.

A $45,000,000 state appropriation supplementing the bond issue already has been placed in treasury bills yielding $1,200 a day, Ebright added. The interest money goes into bonus funds.

The bonds are to be delivered to the National City Bank of New York, head of a syndicate marketing them, next Wednesday. Ebright will buy the bills as soon as he receives the check for $201,000,000.

He said $36,000,000 would be put in bills maturing at the rate of $9,000,000 a week during May, and $150,000,000 in bills maturing July 22.

The remaining $15,000,000 will be deposited in the City National Bank & Trust company here for working capital—to pay the first checks. The date for that has not been set yet, although officials say some checks may be written, but not mailed, by the end of this month.

WHEELING, W. Va. — (AP) — Harry Weidetz, a figure in Wheeling's gambling and night life activities who was murdered two weeks ago, left an estate valued at $150,000 to his widow, Freda. This was disclosed Saturday when his will was filed for probate in the court of Judge Raymond Falland.

Two Injured In Mishaps

Two Mansfielders were injured slightly in automobile accidents yesterday.

Three-year-old Joseph Edward Appleman, 110 North Adams street, sustained a bruise on the back of his head when he ran into the right rear fender of a car driven by C. E. Arnold, 29, R. D. 1, Mt. Gilead. Arnold told police. Joseph was treated by a physician and released.

Raymond Karr, 166½ Crouse street suffered a nose contusion when he lost control of his car and collided with a power pole in front of 560 Springmill street. A piece broken from the bumper on Karr's automobile flew across the street and broke the windshield of a car owned by L. H. Smith, R. D. 2, Mansfield.

'Knuckle-Busters' In Industry Today

Boys Played Marbles 5,000 Years Ago

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Changes are three to one that youngsters playing marbles today in India—where the game existed some 5,000 years ago—are using agates produced in West Virginia.

An output of more than 1,000,000 of the little glass balls is all in a day's work at almost any one of the nine plants in the mountain state. Sales Manager Ralph Heatherington of the Akro Agate company here explains that the only other large glass marble producer in the country is in Ottawa, Ill., and adds:

"It's safe to say that 75 per cent of the world's output of glass marbles is manufactured in West Virginia."

An American archeological expedition unearthed primitive marbles in India a few years ago. Marbles also have been found during excavations of the Ptolemaic tombs of Egypt and early in the Christian era young Romans are known to have adapted nuts and stones for use in their games.

Today youngsters in those areas still are playing marbles—but with the West Virginia kind. Additional large markets have been developed in western Europe, in Iran and other nations of Asia, South America and Africa.

25 CARLOADS SHIPPED

Heatherington said that his company alone has shipped almost 25 carloads of glass marbles to South America since the end of World War II. Belgium has absorbed five or six carloads in the same time for distribution in continental Europe.

Before the war much of the West Virginia output went to Britain and Canada. A tightened economy in those countries, however, has all but cut off demands in recent months, and Heatherington said the "flight of the dollar" also is affecting the Dutch and Belgian markets.

Meanwhile, the domestic use of the fine quality agates also has dropped off somewhat, largely because American youngsters don't gather around their backyard and school ground rings in numbers to compare with other years.

More than taking up the slack, however, have been the rapidly increasing uses of marbles in industry, both in the United States and abroad.

Marble producers learned years ago that only the finest agates would stand up under the beating a "shooter" takes in a sandlot game. The resultant development of high grade agates is credited with their appearance in other manufacturing processes.

INDUSTRIAL USES

Lithographers and engravers, for example, roll the tough little balls over copper electrodes bathed in emery dust and oil to obtain perfect smoothness for their plates. The marbles appear by the millions in highway road signs, and are ordered in equal quantities for fish hatchery spawning tanks. A roadside marker made of marbles reflects an auto's headlights and is easily read at night.

In the last few years, Heatherington said, an agate torpedo has been developed to clean out old oil wells. The marbles are still mixed in with the explosive elements.

Formulas are worked out carefully in laboratories before the actual marble manufacturing is begun. Then comes the careful mixing of as many as 20 ingredients, including exact amounts of white sand, soda ash and lime, into a substance which is heated into molten glass in a white hot furnace.

Next the mixture is run off into other machinery which in turn sends molten balls of glass over threaded rollers which give them their perfect, round shapes.

The balls, still hot, and brilliant and sparkling in their many-colored makeup, are channeled swiftly into sorting machines where they are divided according to color and grade. Then they are whisked off to packing rooms to be placed in packages of 50 or 100 for shipments all over the world.

Owners Of Homes Rise

NEW YORK —(AP)— More people own their own homes today than ever before, the Institute of Life Insurance has reported.

The biggest proportion of home ownership is found in the rural and farm areas, where about two-thirds of the dwellings were owner occupied in 1947, as against little more than half in 1940, the institute said.

Based on a U. S. census report, the number of owner-occupied dwellings in the United States rose to 21,300,000 in 1947, a 40 per cent gain over 1940. In all there are 39,100,000 occupied dwellings in the country, the institute estimated.

Galion Boy Scouts Receive Charter

GALION—Charter night was observed by Troop 6, Boy Scouts of America, Tuesday in the parish hall of the First Evangelical U. B. church.

Field scout executive Ray Turner of Mansfield, Johnny Appleseed area, presented the troop charter to A. R. Lucas, chairman. Brief remarks were made by Turner C. G. Heller of Mansfield, and Rev. Paul Walter of the Galion church.

Tenderfoot pins were presented to Edward Bianchi, Kenneth Thoman, Lowell Frye, and Glenn Shifley. Scoutmaster Marion Moyer gave a neckerchief to each boy.

Prostitution Rings Raided

ATLANTA —(AP)— The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Saturday that agents had been raiding in four states to break up a prostitution ring operating in 10 southern cities.

Special Agent Edwin J. Foltz at Atlanta said the ring used girls recruited in Michigan, Indiana, Florida and Georgia and specialized in providing prostitutes for calls to hotels.

Drunken Driver Fined By Court

Edward DeWitt, Mansfield R. D. 1, was fined $50 and costs in municipal court yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of having physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Vernard D. Coe, 35 Brickman avenue, and Karl Schlotterer, Willard, were fined $5 and costs each for permitting unlicensed drivers to operate motor vehicles.

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacu-mating". It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks, tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-477-B State St., Wauwatosa, Wis. are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or just send your name and address on a penny post card today.—Adv.

Ohio Flood Crests At 64.3 Stage

Fall At Cincinnati Starts Early Today

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Ohio river inched toward a predicted 64.3 foot crest Saturday as thousands of flood victims prepared for a return to their water-soaked homes.

River Forecaster George Marth turned his attention to charting the recession of the rampaging stream. He said the river would fall to 64 feet today, 63 by Monday and would be under the 52-foot flood stage by Thursday.

These reports came as victory appeared assured for residents of neighboring Newport, Ky., in their battle to keep flood water from a west end section, housing 4,000 persons.

Possible new tragedy was reported, however, from the upriver city of Portsmouth, where the river crested at 63.7 feet last night, 13.3 above flood level.

Three personus were believed drowned in the flooded Scioto river, near Portsmouth, after their rowboat overturned

Two companions, Paul Webber, 19, and Dell Mann, 21, who swam to safety, said the last they saw of the other three they were clinging to a telephone pole.

The trio was identified as Carl Steele, 18, and his brother Wilfred, 30, and W D Shaw, 30. All except Shaw, a visitor from Los Angeles, are from Coles Park, near Portsmouth

Civil air patrol members and volunteers in boats began a search for them late in the day.

Earlier, two high school girls drowned at Friendship, O, downstream from Portsmouth, raising the toll of human life to four Two other deaths had been attributed indirectly to the flood.

Newport residents, aided by 640 soldiers, completed erection of a sandbag barrier, 10 feet high and 2,000 feet long, which officials feel certain will keep the Licking river from spilling into the city. The Licking enters the Ohio at Newport.

With recession of the flooded stream already in sight, thousands of persons, now cared for by the Red Cross, got ready for the job of clearing river mud and debris from their homes.

The Red Cross estimated that 31,000 persons in the West Virginia-Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana area were affected by the flood This report did not include families who moved themselves or moved into second floor rooms in flooded areas.

At Pomeroy, upstream from Portsmouth, the Ohio had fallen to a level even with second-story windows on Front street, and, in nearby Middleport, residents were sweeping out flood debris.

Community Play Patrons Get Chance To Pick Program

When Mansfielders attend a Community Play next season they will see a play of their own choosing

One thousand letters—with postcards enclosed for replies—went into the mail yesterday to patrons of the 21-year-old amateur theatrical group

Nine available plays, tentatively chosen by the board of governors of the players for their entertainment and literary value, are listed on the cards. Patrons, who will serve as the "play selecting committee," are asked to check the play they would like to see presented next year, then drop the cards in the mailbox.

Plays listed are: Drama—"Joan of Lorraine," "Antigone," and "Suspect," mystery — "Laura," "Ladies in Retirement," and "One Mad Night," comedy—"Suds in Your Eye," "Skylark," and 'Milky Way"

Any play not listed that patrons would prefer seeing produced, may be added to the card. All suggestions will be considered in the final selection which is based on the majority of votes.

Meanwhile, the players announced that tickets are now available for the final production of the winter season, "The Return of Peter Grimm," April 27 and 28.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the cast or stage crew. They also will be distributed throughout the downtown area. Season ticketholders are not required to exchange their ticket for the night they wish to attend the play

Posters for the play went up this week in Mansfield stores and factories The play will be produced at John Simpson auditorium.

Body Washes Up In Flood

MIDDLEPORT —(AP)— Flood waters of the Ohio river washed up the body of a man about 55 or 60 years old late Saturday Coroner Henry Ewing said it had been in the water from six to eight months

The badly decomposed body was clad in overalls and tweed trousers tucked into shoes usually worn by river boat firemen.

Rivermen recalled that a victim of the Joe Cook sinking at Ravenswood, W Va, several months ago still was missing and estimated the body could have been in the water since then. They admitted there was nothing, however, to link the body to the sinking.

Georgia Governor Condemns Terror Campaign By Klan

ATLANTA—(AP)—Savage beating of a young war veteran with a leather lash brought charges by Georgia's governor Saturday that the Ku Klux Klan is setting out on a systematic terror campaign.

Gov. M E. Thompson said the Klan, through a new adjunct called "The Black Raiders," has planned a series of floggings and lashings of private citizens in Atlanta, LaGrange and "other places."

He ordered the Georgia bureau of investigation and police officers throughout the state on a special alert.

Solicitor General Paul Webb, meanwhile, said he already had linked the Atlanta flogging with the brutal whipping of a negro man and woman in Lagrange, in South Georgia, several weeks ago. He did not elaborate on the connection but said the Atlanta incident had many "ramifications"

Webb said Troup county officers told him the only reason for the floggings of Limon and Mary Gates was that Gates "was a little too active in a negro church."

Joe Berry, 23-year-old unemployed construction worker, was found bent against a tree here Thursday night, partially disrobed, bleeding from a mass of welps across the back. Nearby, officers found cards bearing the words "Black Raiders," a black mask, a pistol and two-foot heavy leather strap

Five men have been arrested and charged with assault with intent to murder.

Meat Strike Talks Fail

CHICAGO — (AP)—Negotiations to end the 33 day old nationwide CIO meat handlers strike bogged down in nearly half the meat packing industry Saturday. Armour and Company, one of the "big four" packers, began a move to restore operations without a settlement.

Armour and Wilson and Company, another of the "big four" announced they were standing pat on their previously rejected offer of a nine cents an hour wage boost.

The CIO United Packinghouse Workers have demanded 29 cents more an hour for their nearly 100,000 striking workers.

Armour said it would attempt to restore operations in its struck plants "as rapidly as we can obtain personnel" It added that "negotiations are over"

Armour's back to work movement will face its real test next week. Packing plant operations normally are nearly at a standstill on Saturdays.

Mexican Red Foes Unite

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Alarmed by reports of possible communist sabotage in Mexico and other countries, leaders of 25 anti-communist organizations voted Saturday to combine in a single stronger body

About 80 persons including some from other cities, discussed the dangers of a threatened national electrical strike, the unrest they blame upon several left wing groups, and the disclosure Saturday of a communist plot to cut all telegraph lines in Mexico

An important government official who disclosed the plot said immediate steps to foil it were taken by Secretary of Communications Augustin Garcia Lopez.

Television Industry Is Expanding

Lifting of Petrillo Ban Aids New Field

NEW YORK —(AP)— Recent vitamin shots are sending the infant television industry sprouting in a sensational burst of growth.

Sights are being raised all along the line as growth proceeds at a rate exceeding general expectations and matching the most optimistic predictions of a few months ago.

Here are some of the "vitamins" that have stepped up the already fast rate of television expansion:

1. The lifting of James C. Petrillo's ban on live music for television.

2. The rapid increase in the number of sets in the hands of the public, making advertisers more willing to do heavy spending for first rate television shows.

3. The approach of the national party conventions, the Louis-Walcott fight, the baseball season and other events that will be naturals for television.

4. A step-up in expansion of television network facilities that will make better programs available over wider areas.

HERE'S RESULTS

Here are some of the results of the "vitamin" shots:

There are 23 stations on the air now—with two more due to start regular programs within a matter of days. At the end of the war only eight were on the air. The total is due to go up sharply to 50 or 60 by the end of the year. Seventy other stations have been given construction permits and more than 180 applications are on file.

Set manufacturers are keeping pace. They have boosted their output past 36,000 sets a month, expect to turn out 600,000 to 750,000 sets before the year is out—maybe more. They expect to count next year's output in the millions. This compares with less than 7,000 sets in 1946 and less than 200,000 in 1947.

In the program field, broadcasters and sponsors are lining up new programs of all types to appeal to the fast growing audience. The lifting of the ban by Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians on live music already has resulted in telecasts of Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony orchestra and Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia symphony.

In the works are grand opera, performances by concert artists, musical comedies and popular bands. Some will be telecasts of radio shows, some will be presented especially for television.

Television coverage of sports is being stepped up and most of the major league baseball teams will be televised this summer. Football will be covered on a much wider scale.

The program boys are cooking up many new and novel shows particularly suited to television. Fashion shows are going over with the feminine viewers. Science programs are bringing such features as views of the moon through giant telescopes.

The expansion of network coaxial cables and radio relays will make the best of these programs available over wide areas of the country.

The Bell system's mid-west network is scheduled to stretch from St. Louis to Cleveland and Buffalo by early October in time for the football season. In December, a coaxial cable connection will be made between Cleveland and Philadelphia, linking the east coast and mid-west networks.

However, it's still a guess as to how long it will be before there's a coast-to-coast hookup. Some are predicting New York and Hollywood will be linked by the end of 1949—others are less optimistic.

As the broadcasting end of television develops, the manufacturers are trying to keep up with the demand for sets. At the same time, their engineers are busy trying to produce better sets for less money.

World's An Oyster To U. S. Traveler With Money, Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK—(AP)—The whole wide world, with a few notable exceptions, is the apple of the American tourist this summer. Competition for his presence (and dollars) is fierce and tough.

Times have changed. The multi-million dollar travel industry is aware that purse strings have been drawn tight around the tourist greenback. Once again the public is asking just what it is going to get for its playtime money. There are more places to go and more ways of getting there.

Randall M. Ruhrmann, head of an organization pushing Lake Erie as the ideal vacationland, summed up bluntly:

"There will be less vacation money in circulation this year and the customers will be definitely price and money conscious. While business will still be good, it will be below last year."

But the customer can look around in any direction, near or far, and find a welcoming outstretched hand. For those who seek foreign travel, there's Alaska and Canada to the north; Hawaii and the down-under countries to the west; Central and South America to the south, and the Old World to the east. All are eager and anxious to play hosts the camera-carrying contingent. Only the Arctic, Russia and neighbors, Yugoslavia and some trouble spots in the east seem to be off-limits.

Prices, unhappily, are holding to their own high levels in most places. A vacation this year will cost just as much, if not a little more, than it did last year. One possible exception is France, which recently devalued the franc.

U. S. RESORTS BOOMING

At home, the postwar drive to spread the vacation season over the whole year is continuing. Most of the resorts which traditionally are winter boom towns are working overtime to sell palm trees in the summer.

The domestic resorts of the northern United States did a brisk winter sports trade and now are focusing on the usual stampede of summer vacationers, summer residents and tourists to their mountains and seashores.

Motor travel is expected to increase this summer. Some three million new cars are on the road. The American Automobile association expects that 3,000 automobiles will be shipped abroad by American tourists—even with gasoline selling from 45 cents up a gallon. The Alcan Alaska highway, all 1,523 miles, will be open to the public for the first time this summer.

Airlines, railroads and bus lines are up to their necks in package tours that stream out all over the United States, and are designed to fit almost any vacation pocketbook. Hotels, motels and cabins are inviting patronage this year. For the last five years the demand for accommodations has been much greater than the supply.

Cruises will be available—mostly to the South American ports—for a small number. Prices remain high for these, and they are booked up well in advance.

SHIPPING SPACE SHORT

The real bottle neck is transocean shipping. Only about 30 trans-Atlantic ships, with a monthly capacity of 22,250 passengers, are currently available. In 1937, more than 90 passenger ships were ready to handle 90,000 voyagers monthly. However, the airlines can carry another 19,000 Europe-bound travelers each month.

Britain, France, Switzerland, the Benelux countries, Spain and Portugal are making a strong bid for all the tourists they can get. Czechoslovakia, even since the government upheavals, is still interested in rolling out red carpet to foreigners. A limited number of sightseers will be permitted in the American zone of Germany where special hotels and facilities have been set up. Austria, too, is happy to share her music and scenery for the first time since the war.

The state department is not enthusiastic about issuing the necessary papers to visit a number of countries, and refuses passports for Yugoslavia. Passports for Russia can be obtained, but Russian visas are rare enough to be collector's items. Travelers to Palestine junket strictly on their own responsibility and take their own risks. So do those who want to experience the sights and smells of India.

Italy is once again open to tourists, and almost all the famous hostels from the northern lake region down to popular Capri are refurbished. Visitors to Italy are advised, however, to avoid transportation and accommodations hardships by making reservations through travel agencies.

The Olympic games will lure many a traveler to Great Britain, of course, and to make a visit to the islands more attractive, American tourists with dollars to spend are getting all sorts of breaks on clothing rationing and gasoline allotments.

FRANCE PREPARED

France can handle at least a million tourists this year, the French National Tourists' office says, but expects to pick up a large number of British vacationers. The British government recently liberalized travel and outgoing money restrictions.

Holland will be dressed in its holiday best to celebrate the diamond jubilee of Queen Wilhelmina's reign.

North Africa, a familiar spot to many an American, is making a strong bid for the war veteran trade. Morocco always has been a popular winter resort for Europeans, but now its government is hoping to capitalize on the appeal of Casablanca and the battlefields of Tunisia.

Scandinavia also is interested in pulling its quota of summer visitors. Sweden offers good food, full shop windows and modern travel facilities plus the regular sights. Norway, which suffered more during the war years, is long on its midnight sun and scenery.

On the other side of the Atlantic, Bermuda, the West Indies, Cuba and South America are stressing their climate, sea breezes, modern accommodations and historic vistas. They are being pushed particularly by the airlines as good vacation spots—it's still hard to book ship passage unless its part of a package cruise deal.

Culvert Job Gets Approval

A stone-box culvert on the Coursen road in Perry township will be replaced by metal pipe and a concrete headwall.

County commissioners yesterday authorized the county engineer to proceed with the work. The new culvert, to cost an estimated $961, will be 10 feet east of the present culvert.

Commissioners authorized cleanout of a ditch on the lands of W. R. Russell in Cass township. The benefitted land owners, Ben L. Nelson, H. W. Bloom, Ernest N. Forquer, R. O. Smith and G. G. Bontwell, will pay $160 the cost of cleaning out 800 feet.

The county will pay $70 for cleanout of 200 feet and for moving equipment to do the work, since the work will result in added protection for a bridge.

R. O. Darling, Mansfield contractor, was employed to do the work.

Accident Victim Admits 'I Shoulda' Been Watching'

School Children Give Grown-ups Lesson In Safety

By BOB EDWARDS

Mansfield school children are giving grown-ups a lesson in accident prevention through a unique safety program sponsored by the Mansfield police department's junior safety council.

During a one-year period under the council plan there were 28 fewer accidents involving children than in previous years when the junior council was not holding safety classes.

The Junior Safety Council idea was established ten years ago by Traffic Commissioner Freed C. Boals.

It works under the direction of grade school children assisted by a teacher supervisor. The children elect a president, a secretary and an assistant secretary in charge of accidents.

These three officers arrange and direct four safety meetings a year. The programs consist of school safety, fire prevention, street safety, home safety, winter safety, first aid and spring and summer safety.

MODEL MEETINGS

Far from being foolish or playful, the meetings are models of parliamentary procedure and the suggestions of the children concerning safety are succinct and to the point.

In a typical meeting at Carpenter school last week, the accident secretary, Vivianne Honse, described an accident that nine-year-old Billy Kunert had had with his airplane.

It seems that Billy threw his airplane into the air and didn't watch it with the result that it zoomed down out of the blue, striking him in the temple and inflicting a wound.

After reading the accident report to the attentive class, secretary Vivianne asked, "How could this accident have been prevented?"

"He shouldn't have been throwing his airplane," volunteered a bright-eyed eight year old.

This suggestion was greeted by a disapproving "oooh" on the part of the class.

CHILDREN AGREE

"Well, doesn't everyone throw their planes?" questioned secretary Vivianne.

Bobbing heads indicated agreement by the class.

The hand of 11-year-old, tousle-headed Johnny Northrup shot up and secretary Vivianne recognized him.

"He should have kept his eye on the plane," Johnny put forth in a most decisive manner.

Nods from the surrounding boys and girls attested as to the soundness of the suggestion

Billy Kunert, the victim, sporting a large white adhesive bandage on his head turned to the blond pigtailed lass next to him and whispered, "That's right, I shoulda' been watchin'."

The children, both victim and judge, take the accident and the advice seriously. Accidents are no laughing matter to them.

During a later period President Jack Neal, stern visaged and confident as only a ten year old can be, lead a remarkably sound discussion on the parking of bicycles and the maintenance of school yard safety.

When suggestions became irrelevant and unimportant he briskly directed the speakers to make more sense. "We quit talking about that long ago. We're talking about something else now," he said.

Not once was it necessary for the teacher supervisor, Miss Thelma Ringgenberg, to interrupt or correct the children.

The deepest impression an adult takes away from one of these meetings is that left to themselves and with a little direction and assistance, school age children will take very good care of themselves and each other.

DOCTOR APPOINTED

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Dr. Emmett Hooper, former superintendent of the Dayton State hospital, Saturday was named assistant head of the neuropsychiatric division of the veterans administration's branch office.

Fund Shift Approved

County commissioners yesterday authorized transfer of $48,250 from the general fund to the Children's Home fund for operating expenses for the year.

Also transferred was $7,105 from the general fund to the road fund for engineering office expenses for 1947.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the transfers were mechanical changes in the fund set-up inasmuch as the commissioners authorized that sum in their appropriations resolution passed the first of the year.

But the money was not available until after real estate taxes were collected, Wolfe said. The $7,105 going into the road fund is the one-third provided by the county for expenses of the engineering office, according to law. The balance comes out of the road fund.

Today's Quiz On Cancer

Q—What are ways to help prevent cancer?

A—Cancer in many cases is believed to have beein preceded by chronic irritation and inflammation. Such conditions should always be corrected. Two types of irritation associated with child birth inspire these suggestions.

2. Six weeks after child birth, see your physician for a careful examination to establish definitely that there are no injuries to the uterus (womb) which need correction.

3. Have a complete physical examination once a year, and during the period you are from 35 to 55 years old, twice a year.

Bucyrian At 91 Still Works At Business Born In Basket

BUCYRUS—In excellent health despite his 91 years, Dan E. TenEyck still enjoys helping out in the business he started more than a half century ago.

He recalls how he first sold products from a basket, traveling by foot. Fifty-three years ago he started the greenhouse that his son, William, now operates.

The business was started in a small building. There the TenEycks at first raised only lettuce and radishes.

They often traveled by foot when the weather would not permit the use of horse and wagon. Two and a half ton trucks are now used in the extensive business.

The elder TenEyck retired from active operation of the greenhouse only two years ago.

Last Sunday he and his wife celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Green Tabs Tell Story

Ohio Cancer Clinic Finds Education Saves Patients

By BOB BONOMI

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The bright green tabs indicate life—life continuing after cancer.

There are a lot of them in the card file of the Franklin county (Columbus) tumor registry. There will be more when the files of perhaps the world's first free cancer clinic are added.

Other tabs tell of patients under treatment. They and the green tabs tell of a cancer fight that has continued since the Columbus Cancer clinic was set up here in 1921.

Five patients attended the first free clinic that year. Since then more than 14,000 persons have been examined free at the Columbus clinic. Cancer was found in 3,264 of them, and caused the death of 120.

Early newspaper drawings portrayed the clinic as a young woman directing the light of education into a cave of ignorance and fear while a doctor stood nearby to halt the discovered disease.

Registered Nurse Helen S. Houghton, the clinic superintendent, believes education has helped to save many lives and lift worry from thousands of minds.

PATIENTS CHECK EARLIER

"Patients are coming in for examination much earlier than previously," she said. "This helps very much because we can do much more toward halting the disease."

The first cancer clinic consisted of two bleak rooms, four registered nurses and a clinic aide. The services of the physicians still are donated, but the staff includes specialists and research men.

Now there are complete X-ray diagnostic facilities. Medical specialists provide additional equipment. Endoscopes make possible direct visual examination of the interiors of the lungs, the esophagus, stomach and intestines.

The staff of specialists is backed by the research laboratories of Ohio State university's division of cancer research. Also participating in the work are the Franklin county tumor registry, a county unit of the American Cancer society and the state health department.

In the clinic, general examinations are given to determine the patient's ailment. He is directed to a special clinic if cancer is found. In the latter, specialists determine the type of treatment needed.

It costs nearly $27,000 a year to operate the clinic exclusive of research expense. The funds come from the Community Chest and private donors.

To Dedicate New TB Unit

ASHLAND—Plans are under way for a formal dedication of the combination fluoroscope and X-ray purchased for county health use by the Ashland County Tuberculosis and Health association.

The unit will be dedicated to the late Mrs. Ruth Daum, county health nurse for many years prior to her death. The unit will be used in the tuberculosis case finding program which is carried on by the county health department in cooperation with the Ashland county commissioners.

Plans are also being completed for a county-wide X-ray survey to be made next fall.

Extend Contracts For Three Years

SHELBY—Contracts were extended yesterday for three years to High School Principal J. E. McCollough and Supt. Byron Carmean at salaries not disclosed by J. A. Anderson, president of the Shelby board of education.

The action was taken by the Shelby board to give the administration officials the same protection offered to the members of thefaculty through teacher-tenure legislation adopted by the state.

Pranksters' Bogus Calls Ring False

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— "Hello, this is Ralph Edwards; you have just won $25,000 worth of prizes!"

If you receive such a telephone call, you can charge it up to some prankster with a warped sense of humor. The latest fad among telephone humorists is the impersonation of Edwards and other masters of give-away quiz programs.

NBC says it receives many inquiries about such bogus calls, the number increasing during the "hush" contests. The network advises listeners to discount the jokesters. If an air show does call you, you'll know it: Contestants are called well before the program begins and are given a thorough examination.

Legion Auxiliary Votes Aid to ACS

GALION — With Mrs. Elmer Curfman presiding at the regular business meeting, the American Legion auxiliary voted to give $4 to the nurse's cottage at Xenia and $10 to the American Cancer society fund. Rehabilitation work for the past month amounted to $141.

Reports were made by Mrs. G. D. Finney, Mrs. H. L. Neumann, and Mrs. E. R. Rehm.

Bids Sought For Repairs

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Bids are being sought on an emergency basis to put a new roof over the state capitol.

"The present roof has been leaking like a sieve," said Public Works Director George B. Sowers. He asserted immediate re-roofing of the state house was needed to save it from serious damage.

Sowers estimated the cost of a new asphalt roof over the state house, the state house terrace and the annex at approximately $83,000.

State records under the terrace had to be covered with canvas to protect them from water, Sowers said.

Bids will be received April 26 on the terrace roof, May 4 on the state house annex, and later on the main building. The skylights over the Senate and House chambers will be removed because they no longer are needed and are leaky.

Iberians Take TB X-Rays April 27

IBERIA — Dr. H. M. Hartsock, Morrow county health commissioner, urged Iberians to come to theh schoolhouse Tuesday, April 27 for a chest X-ray which will be taken free of charge.

Conducting a tuberculosis patch test at the school Monday, he was assisted by Mae Tisdale, county public health nurse, who stated that a positive reaction does not necessarily mean that the individual has the disease. It does, however, mean that further tests should be made.

No Fuss, No Muss, No Waiting

The Mansfield Housing Co., 45 West Second Street, local distributors for the now famous LOOK House have selected a POURED MONOLITHIC CONCRETE basement wall because of its beauty, durability and watertightness.

Here is a wall that combines the following advantages:

- Strength
- Beauty
- Absolutely Watertight
- Cannot Crack
- Never Needs Paint
- Low In Cost

For the same reason that designers of skyscrapers and all commercial and industrial buildings demand a monolithic concrete foundation, the builders of the modern LOOK House have selected this type of wall in place of a conventional type.

ASK ANY ARCHITECT OR ENGINEER. For example, the compressive strength of this foundation wall will exceed 3500 pounds per square inch, as compared to other types of walls which rarely are designed for over 1000 lb. per square inch.

Over 3 Times the Strength of the Ordinary Wall

Paul Hoffman—Unique Executive

Super-Salesman to Direct European Aid

(EDITOR'S NOTE. Paul Hoffman, newly-appointed administrator of the European recovery program, is a member of the board of Empire Steel corporation. Hoffman was named to the board following the recent acquisition of the Mansfield company by the Studebaker corporation, of which Hoffman is president.)

By W. R. WALTON
Managing Editor, South Bend (Ind.) Tribune
(Written for the Associated Press)

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—When President Truman selected Paul Gray Hoffman to direct the foreign aid program he named one of America's super salesmen.

As a matter of fact Hoffman, who will observe his 57th birthday April 26, has been selling since 1909 when he quit the University of Chicago after his freshman year. Most of those 39 years have been spent in selling automobiles in one form or another, but he has not exactly confined his talents.

In 1933 when the Studebaker corporation went into receivership he and Harold S Vance were vice presidents. They were appointed receivers and to Hoffman fell the difficult task of "selling" a group of Wall Street bankers that Studebaker could stage a comeback.

As Hoffman tells it, all he did was to convince the bankers that Studebaker was a safe investment and that such a veteran organization should not be allowed to pass from the American scene. Whatever it was, his plan worked and two years later Studebaker was reorganized with Hoffman as president and Vance as chairman of the board.

Then in 1942 with Studebaker almost fully converted for wartime production, including manufacture of engines for Flying Fortresses, Hoffman became interested in China. He said his interest was not entirely humanitarian—he saw an opportunity for future sales for Studebaker. At any rate he became national chairman of United China relief and was reelected the following year.

LEADS JEWISH APPEAL

A couple of years later he took time out to team up with another South Bend business man to put on a drive in South Bend for the United Jewish appeal. Like all things that Hoffman lends a hand to it went over easily and the interesting thing about it was that the appeal was confined to Gentiles.

At the time he was directing United China relief Hoffman also became chairman of the Committee for Economic Development. It numbered among its members some of America's top business leaders who combined their efforts during the war years in postwar planning that they hoped would provide 55,000,000 jobs.

While all of this was going on Hoffman never once forgot Studebaker or its postwar problems. Within two days after V-E day in 1945 Studebaker was re-tooling for its new model. More than $20 million were spent on the new car, but neither Hoffman nor Vance ever doubted its wisdom.

Despite his widespread activities Hoffman probably is the easiest executive in South Bend to reach and that is because he answers his own telephone. So do other Studebaker executives, whether they like it or not. It annoys Hoffman to have a secretary answer with a "who's calling please?"

On the other hand, if you're planning to see Hoffman it's well to have a date well in advance for, just as like as not, if you don't he'll be on a plane between South Bend and Los Angeles or New York or Washington.

CLOSE TO FAMILY

Somehow or other Hoffman always finds time to spend with his family even though in the last several years they have been separated for weeks at a time. The family consists of—and this usually surprises most people—Mrs. Hoffman and five sons and two daughters, one a ward.

Hoffman likes people around him, but he abhors cocktail parties. He takes an occasional drink, but gave up smoking a few years ago. For relaxation he plays golf by days and bridge by nights and gives a good account of himself at both. His luck also holds at family poker and he will accept any challenge offered at gin rummy.

as a private. But the time the armistice was signed he was a first lieutenant. He then returned to Los Angeles. He purchased the Studebaker retail branch and in 1925 offered and accepted the vice presidency in charge of sales of the corporation in South Bend.

Last but not least Hoffman brings a unique labor record to his new job of directing the foreign aid program. There never has been a major strike at Studebaker's. In the quarter just ended Studebaker produced 59,187 vehicles for a new all-time record, and in March of this year established a single month's record by turning out 21,228 cars and trucks.

PAUL HOFFMAN . . . To Lead a Continent

Hoffman is listed as a Republican, but no one ever knew him to take an active role in a political campaign. He doesn't like to be known as "right" or "left," but prefers to be "responsible." By that he means getting at the roots of the subject and then making up his own mind and having the courage to defend his stand.

Automobiles always have played a prominent role in Hoffman's life, although of late he probably has spent more time in airplanes. Born in Chicago, his father, the late George D. Hoffman, a successful inventor, was not enthusiastic in 1909 when young Paul wanted to sell automobiles. But the youth insisted, and it wasn't long until his sales of Halladay cars exceeded those of the other four men employed in the agency of Charles M. Hayes.

The following year the Hoffman family moved to Los Angeles and Paul got a job with the Studebaker dealer there. In 1914 he won a national sales contest and by 1917 when the United States entered the first world war he was branch manager of th Los Angeles district.

He joined the army in 1917

Construction Attains Peak

NEW YORK —(AP)— The largest first-quarter construction activity on record was reported yesterday by F. W. Dodge corporation.

Dollar volume of construction contracts in 37 eastern states was listed as $1,986,936,000 for the first three months of 1948. This surpassed by 23 per cent last year's record for the period.

The Dodge corporation, fact-finding agency for the construction industry, said residential contracts held even with 1947 while non residential awards were up 42 per cent and heavy engineering contracts 46 per cent.

Thomas S. Holden, president, noted increased costs account for some, if not all, of the dollar gain. Residential contracts, he said, cover considerably less new floor area than a year ago.

Heaviest gains for any of the reporting areas included in the Dodge figures were made in eastern Missouri, southern Illinois, western Tennessee and Arkansas, second largest increase was that in western Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

Earthquake Shock Felt

PASADENA, Calif. —(AP)— A major earthquake, about 6,000 miles away, was recorded Saturday by the California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Charles F. Richter, chief of the seismological laboratory, said it was sufficiently strong to have caused extensive damage if it occurred in a populated place.

Dr. Perry Byerly, University of California seismologist at Berkeley, said the quake was recorded there at 9:23 a.m. (PDT) and lasted an hour. He estimated the distance at 5,300 miles.

Dr. Richter, comparing his observations with those of Berkeley, placed the temblor, "possibly in the southern Japanese islands."

'Nobody Worries,' Says Ex-New Yorker

A-Bomb Fugitive Finds Montana Hide-out

By MERRILL ENGLUND

DE BORGIA, Mont —(AP)— There's a happy fugitive from the atom bomb in this northeastern Montana mountain town.

He's 44-year-old William Keenan who brought his wife and family west to escape the bomb.

"We're crazy about this place," Keenan said as he worked on his "atom haven" in the timber country. The haven is a two-story combination restaurant and living quarters for the Keenans and their four children.

It'll be a "French boulevard style restaurant—with good food and wine," Keenan said.

The civil engineer is doing the work himself. He dug a well—this village of 65 population has no water system. He lined the well with concrete. All his building materials he trucked in—fire brick from Spokane, Wash., lumber from mills in this area.

Keenan and his family left Port Washington, New York, in October 1946. They lived in Butte, Mont., for three months while Keenan "cruised over this whole area—and into Idaho."

Late in December a year ago Keenan found the place he was looking for, DeBorgia, a tiny village entirely ringed by mountains, was his hideout.

NEW YORK'S 'TARGET'

Keenan got away from New York because he says the city is an ideal target for an A-bomb. But now, after having had more than a year to think it over, he says he got out of a lot more.

New York is "seven and a half million people going mad," Keenan said. "They mow their lawns, clip their hedges—everybody watching everybody else. They get on the train, jam into the subway, go to work, get back on the subway, the train, come home and mow their lawns some more."

"Out here, there's none of that."

"Coast cities are subject to every whim. They have gas rationing, food rationing, they can be easily attacked. There's no safety in a coast city—economic or otherwise.

"Out here, nobody worries about food. We have a deer and an elk in our cooler. There are fish in the river—maybe a hundred feet from here. Nobody worries about milk—we have a cow. Nobody worries about taxes, even—my total tax bill this year was $1.65.

So we're safe. And besides the kids'll have something to remember. If they were brought up in a city, all they'd ever have known would be chaos. Why, I came back from the army engineers—and all I had in common with my son was the comic books."

PLEASANT FOR CHILDREN

"This way, the children will have something pleasant to remember. They're learning to fish, ride horses, swim. They'll remember picking apples and eating them, putting their ears down to the track and listening to a train coming. They'll know about cows and chickens. These are the only pleasant things I can remember of childhood.

"But in a city—why everybody I know in New York wants to get out. But they have no idea how to do it. I've had hundreds of letters from people wanting to come out here. But if I wrote them to come, I'd feel like maybe I should help them out. And I'm in no financial position to do that.

"Last time I was in a city, I went to Spokane to buy some bricks. I put a nickel in the parking meter. Got back about five minutes late. Sure enough, a parking ticket. So I drove to the police station. Drove around for almost an hour looking for a parking place so I could go in and pay a parking fine. What kind of a life is that?

The children include 12-year-old Billy. He has a horse. Then there are the three girls—Barbara, 10, Pauline, 7, and Ruth, 4.

"About a week after we got here, I said to my wife, 'Let's see what the kids think about this place,'" Keenan said. "So I said, 'come on, start packing, we're going back east. You should have heard the holler."

Mrs. Keenan, who was born and brought up in New York, is doing a lot of things she never had done before. Makes her own butter, bakes her own bread. Last year she canned more than 1,800 quarts of fruit, vegetables, jams, jellies and mushrooms.

"This place looks like something on a Christmas card," Keenan said. "Little church, school, the mountains, trees, the river."

He's not worried about whether his little restaurant will work out. He figures that U. S. Highway 10, which goes right past the place, will take care of him during the summer. In the winter, I'll go hunting and after all, we have very little use for money here."

Shelby Pupils Give Musicale

All the boys and girls from Grant and Hayes schools will present the program Wednesday night. On the same night the fifth and sixth grades of Central school will present an operetta "Thirty Minutes With Stephen Foster."

The Thursday night program will be presented by all the boys and girls from Central school who were not in the Wednesday performance. The fifth and sixth grades will present their operetta again on Thursday.

Autos to Kill 30,000 In '48

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although the auto death rate is dropping, the United States heads into its biggest motor-travel season with the prospect that automobile accidents will kill some 30,000 persons in 1948.

Our customary traffic performance also indicates that a million will be injured, tens of thousands permanently crippled. The direct economic loss from these accidents is estimated at more than a billion dollars every year.

Paul G. Hoffman, board chairman of the Automotive Safety foundation (and head of the Economic Cooperation administration) warns that these large numbers "are not simply parts of a mathematical equation to be tabulated on adding machines."

"They stand for men, women and children," he says. "Each accident is a tragedy in itself, carrying with it a bitter measure of sadness, of death, of permanent injuries, of broken homes."

Play Royalties Hit New Peak

NEW YORK—(AP) Since George Bernard Shaw is the world's best publicized vegetarian he should be happy indeed contemplating the amount of cabbage he is making this year on Broadway.

By the end of the current theatrical season Maurice Evans alone, who parenthetically is the outstanding green-grocer in the service of presenting G.B.S. with his most succulent financial cabbage will have paid the bearded old bard a total of $150,000.

This is Shaw's royalties alone from "Man and Superman," which is running at the Hudson Theater with all the insistent propulsion of perpetual motion. Come May 19, Maurice Evans will be busting all records for Shavian longevity—of his plays that is.

On that date Evans will have given his 257th performances as the woman fleeing Jack Tanner of "Man and Superman" appropriately a sort of Leap Year classic in that the gal gets her man, meaning Maurice.

HAS PUPPET PLAN—According to the Italian newspaper, "Il Tempo," Soviet Foreign Office Deputy Valerian Zorin already has mapped out a puppet plan for Italy if the communists win the coming elections. His program, it was stated, calls for the fortification of Sicily because "the U. S. will launch its first attack against Europe through Sicily." It also calls for the immediate closing of Italian frontiers. (International.)

Dog Owners Get Warning

SHELBY—Dogs found running loose will be picked up by the dog warden if they are found on property other than that of the owners.

This warning was issued by Mayor Norris after her had received many complaints that dogs were destroying lawns, flower gardens, shrubs and creating a public nuisance.

Owners were warned that the ruling applied to licensed dogs as well as others.

Cut Lip Hampers Andrews Sister

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Patti Andrews—middle woman in the well-known girls trio—was singing the liver lip blues yesterday.

Eight stitches were taken in her lower lip after the top of her convertible coupe fell on her, CBS reported. The Andrews sisters hoped to be back on the air Monday.

Mud Scene Deglamorizes Greer Garson

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD—Greer Garson got deglamorized but good, for a scene in "Julia Misbehaves."

She and Walter Pidgeon are supposed to be outdoors in the mountains of France. Actually they're indoors on a bit of Culver City real estate amid pine trees and manzanita bushes trucked out of the southern California mountains.

Greer spent an hour getting her frilly blue dress and fiery hair-do just so. Then she walked to the set and sat down in the mud; where she's supposed to have toppled from a woodpile. The make-up man daubed more mud all over her.

Special-effects men turned on a drenching network of overhead sprinklers. Another cranked up a wind machine—an old Liberty airplane engine with a propeller in front, surrounded by a heavy steel cage. As the gale thundered and a deluge poured, Pidgeon dashed out of a cabin, picked her up and carried her inside.

The scene required three takes, after which Greer got a loud hand from the crew. Her hair hung stringily over here eyes, and she was soaked to her underwear. I rushed up, breathless, for quotes, while my guide looked apoplectic. "If she catches cold, we'll be blamed!" he muttered.

How did Greer feel? "Like a seal," she said. Earlier, she had explained that she avoids catching cold after such exposure by sipping coffee and rum. And by changing to dry clothes, of course.

I seem to have a knack of dropping around when great ladies of the screen are wallowing in the mud for their art. I remember Claudette Colbert wrestling a pig in the mire for a scene in "The Egg and I." Greer may be a little jealous to learn that Claudette's mud was steam-heated to a comfortable 82 degrees by underground pipes. Greer's mud was the same chilly temperature as the water out of the mains.

And in an earlier sequence she and Pidgeon were dunked into an indoor lake from a rowboat, believing the water was warmed. But it hadn't been—the director wanted to catch the expressions of icy shock on their faces.

BECOMES PRODUCER

After only five movies, Burt Lancaster is starting to produce pictures as well as star in them. "Acting can be essentially dull," he explains. "I want a hand in what others are doing."

Burt is 34, a former circus acrobat. His mouth is narrow and firm, his nose sharp, his brown hair suggestive of wild forest undergrowth. He keeps in trim by exercising on his backyard horizontal bars and by running around the UCLA track, near his home in Westwood, at dawn.

He talks at lightning pace, shuffs up abruptly, and tosses fancy words around. The screen character he's now playing, he said, is "atavistic" and "amoral." The picture, revoltingly titled "Kiss the Blood Off My Hands," co-stars Joan Fontaine and is being produced by Norma Productions, named for Burt's wife. He is the principal stockholder.

"I've never had so much fun as I have sitting up all night with writers, arguing how certain lines should be written," he told me. He demands perfection of others as he does of himself. He played a pro fighter in his first movie, "The Killers," and is still polishing his left jab. By his third day in that film, he was arguing with the director how some of his scenes should be done.

When we talked—not in the usual actor's dressing room but in a handsome green-walled office—Burt needed a shave. He wore a sport shirt and no coat. He always travels light. When he arrived for a screen test two years ago, he had on pants, shirt and overcoat. His two suits were at the cleaner's in New York where he had caught film scouts attention in a play.

Later, when he went to San Francisco to ballyhoo "The Killers," photographers wanted him to pose carrying his luggage off the plane. His luggage consisted of an unwrapped toothbrush sticking out of his coat breast pocket.

Man Dies After Rescue Attempt

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A 61-year-old man was beaten by two hoodlums and died Saturday after he ran to the aid of an elderly robbery victim—but an official ruling hours later said he had died of a heart attack.

Joseph Kontul was pronounced dead at Lutheran hospital after being beaten on the head and face in "Rowdy Row" on West 28th street. His two attackers escaped.

Who's Your Favorite Character In Comics?

Everyone reads the comics.

The comic strip has become as much a part of the American scene as baseball and ice cream

Junior can't get the paper to read the news on the front page because Pop is avidly following the adventures of Dick Tracy

To let our minds take a rest from war news and clouded national politics, the citizens forum this week asked Mansfielders of several ages, 'What is your favorite comic strip?" Here are the answers:

DEE ANNA KNIGHT, five years Mansfield R D 4 Mommy reads the pictures to me Dagwood is best Sometimes Mommy doesn't read them to me I like the one down at the bottom of the page (Nancy) That little boy that don't have any hair'

De Anna

CHARLES CHAMPION, 235 Wood street Dick Tracy and Blondie and Dagwood are my favorites I like those characters the fellow who draws Dick Tracy dreams up They're certainly different from the usual run of comic strip criminals Blondie and Dagwood is pretty true to life."

Champion

★

JANIS KAY BOUGHTON, six years, 129 Boughton avenue "I don't read them often but I like Blondie and Little Orphan Annie very much Mommy reads them to me mostly. Little Orphan Annie is nice."

Janis Kay

★

SHARON BOUGHTON four years old, 129 Boughton avenue 'I don't know. I like Cookie (from "Blondie") and Little Orphan Annie I don't know My hands are cold" (Do you like Sparkle Plenty in Dick Tracy, we asked Sharon just nodded)

Sharon

MONA FYOCK, 429 Beethoven avenue "I guess I like Terry and the Pirates just about the best of all Nancy would come second, I suppose I don't have any particular reason for the choices except that the person who draws Nancy has a very good style"

Fyock

★

CHARLES ALBERT, 169 West Dickson avenue "What's the catch to the question? (We assured him there was no catch") I like Popeye and Dagwood I get a big charge out of reading them They're always good for a laugh. The comics are OK they help to take people's mind off their troubles"

Legislators Lead Revolt Against Reds

Plan Aimed to Force Russian Withdrawal

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Fourteen men in the House of Representatives are ready to ask that the Russians be ignored in world planning until they are ready to agree to whatever plans the majority of nations wants

If adopted, their plan could change the present United Nations so much that the Russians would withdraw Or it could leave the present UN on a side-track while a new world agency was formed to include only the anti-communist states

Seven House Republicans and seven Democrats, led by Walter H. Judd (R-Minn) and Brooks Hays (D-Ark) are the authors of the proposal. They expect to bring it before Congress as a bill early in May.

If the House approves the plan it would still be only "advice" to the state department Under the law, the state department runs the nation's foreign affairs, with direction from the president

But there is such congressional rebellion over the Russian use of the veto—22 times in the past two years—that there are 28 bills before the House to revise the UN charter. There are two in the Senate

INFLUENCE ON POLICY

Old Washington hands say that if this House bill gets approval the state department might feel it had to recognize it and instruct U S delegates at the United Nations to demand changes

The 14-man plan hopes that UN charter revision could be carried out with the approval of all nations But it says that if any of the major powers refuse the United States should take the lead "with other like-minded nations" in setting up "a more effective international organization" for mutual defense and "without participation of the abstaining state or states"

In view of what has happened in the UN. for two years, this could mean that the UN would set up rules in which the Russians would refuse to take part. They might withdraw Or they might attend meetings but abstain from voting.

Judd says

"A third world agency may be set up We ignore the fact that there are two already There is the somewhat paralysed United Nations And there is the communist party which is well organized and scattered all over the world

"The only people who are not organized are the free men And they are the majority of the world's people

'What we want is a world agency that will take the action the world's free men want The Russians can join any time they are willing to go along with the majority vote'

SPECIFIC CHANGES

The Judd-Hays bill names several specific changes in the UN charter, most of them concerned with stopping aggression and with strengthening the police powers of the world agency

The present charter sets up a world police power But the UN committees which have worked on it have found the Russians at odds with the other powers over the manner in which the world police should be organized The result has been that the UN has had no international force to assist Greece and no force to keep the peace in Palestine, Indonesia or China

The UN has agreed on a disarmament program But again the plans proposed by the western nations have been balked by the Russians

So the Judd-Hays plan proposes

1 That the veto be used only when it comes to taking action against an aggressor or voting new members into the world agency

2. That the charter define aggression as "an attack with weapons of violence by a state, or its citizens, against the recognized territory of a member state; or illegal occupation by a state or territory outside the recognized borders of the said state and its possessions."

Judd thinks that definition would invoke world action against such organizations as the Communist action committees" which helped to overthrow the Czech government And he thinks the provision on occupation would cover Russian troops in eastern Germany and Austria if the Kremlin should keep them there indefinitely

3 That 'armament for aggression" be defined and prohibited The plan lists atomic and other weapons of mass destruction and heavy arms beyond agreed quotas Refusal to submit to inspection also is covered

BLAZE SWEEPS PLANT

SOUTH PORTLAND, Me—(AP)—The Portland Copper and Tank works was swept by a $200 000 general alarm blaze that menaced the U S Coast Guard base and several homes Friday night Cause was not determined

Costa Rican Truce Looms

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica—(AP)—A virtual agreement to end Costa Rica's civil war and place Otilio Ulate Blanco in the presidency has been reached and is awaiting final approval, a reliable source said Saturday.

Representatives of the warring political factions and the diplomatic committee which is negotiating a peace settlement will meet today A negotiating session scheduled for Saturday was postponed, no reasons were given

Under the terms of the proposed settlement, Santos Leon Herrera, third vice president of the republic, would serve as interim president until May 8 At that time Ulate would take over the presidency for which he was elected in February.

Ulate's election was nullified by a lame duck Congress, which supported charges of election fraud brought by Rafael Calderon Guardia, defeated government candidate The congressional action in setting aside the election precipitated the civil war.

Walter White

Writer Says Americans Pervaded By Insecurity

During the past few weeks I have traveled from Alabama to Massachusetts and from Georgia to Illinois. Criss-crossing the country east of the Mississippi has revealed a growth of fear and insecurity among Americans which in certain areas amounts almost to a neurosis. At one and the same time Americans of every economic group and creed and color are thinking more seriously and painfully than ever before in their lives about war and taxes and inflation while with almost pathetic yearning they seek a "strong" shining white knight to solve their problems for them.

Perhaps as never before in American history the old cliche of Fourth of July orators about America being at the cross-roads was never so true. One gets the very uncomfortable impression that Americans could as easily succumb to the blandishments and rabble rousing of an American Hitler, mouthing the phraseology of democracy, as they could slough off our traditional indifference to basic issues and get down to the grim business of making democracy work.

Taxi drivers and bankers, editors and housewives, pullman porters and ministers, union members and students are being molded by adversity and apprehension into a curious amalgam. As a people we seem to be awakening reluctantly to the fact that the industrialized society which affords so many creature comforts has at the same time created a Frankenstein monster of mechanized war weapons which can, and possibly soon will, wipe us out of existence. We are uncomfortable because of the grim truth that our remaining alive depends not only on what the men of the Kremlin and Congress decree but upon the unrest in Malaya and Sumatra which affects the world supply of tin and rubber or in the Belgian Congo where the world's largest supply of uranium exists. We would like very much to shut out the rest of the world and settle down to comfortable isolation and security. The fact that even in the most rural areas of the Middle West and of the South, Americans know this is suicidal makes the demand for some miracle to materialize all the more insistent.

WHITE

The growth of the inexplicable sense of insecurity of Americans is all the more startling in view of the statements made by many of those with whom I talked. The characteristic American belief in our own invincibility as a nation has not been perceptibly lessened. But mixed with that cockiness is an almost pathetic awareness of our dependency on a colorful leader. Even those who vilified Roosevelt most vehemently revealed by their denunciation their dependence upon a dramatic personality like his in a fashion which is dangerously close to the father fixation which caused the people of Germany to follow Hitler's insane megalomania.

One would imagine that a people endowed with the lethal destructiveness of a Joe Louis and the wealth of a Rockefeller would not be as scared as we Americans are today. But we are. And that fear pervades every class of Americans like a sickening fever. The lack of enthusiasm for the Tafts, Deweys, Trumans, Byrds and other political leaders and the demand for a "strong" President like Eisenhower or Wallace reveals far more than most Americans realize the extent of our national insecurity.

These conversations with several hundred representative Americans in the area east of the Mississippi also revealed a growing impatience with Congress. They cannot understand why senators and representatives should dawdle many months over the appropriation of five billion dollars for the European recovery program until it is perhaps too late for that aid to be of any value and then exhibit willingness and even eagerness to vote ten times that amount for universal military training, the draft and a huge armaments program, the value of which in an atomic age these Americans question.

The spectacle of a ghost-ridden people visible everywhere today is not a reassuring one. Most disturbing of all is the fact that the old belief that crises always produce great leaders is not being fulfilled in 1948. Whether that "leader" when he comes will be a leader in fact or a demagogue is today the gravest question facing America and the world.

"MISS CLASSIFIED" — In an international contest sponsored by the association of newspaper classified advertising managers, Vivian Spear, 18, of San Antonio, Tex., was chosen "Miss Classified Advertising of 1948." She won her title in a competition with girls from 38 states as well as foreign countries. (Intern'l.)

Red Charge Called False

WASHINGTON — (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith has branded as "false" Soviet charges that Robert Magidoff, an American correspondent, spied for the U. S. embassy in Moscow.

Smith cabled his denial to the state department after Magidoff had been ordered out by the Soviet government. The newsman had been accused by Cecilia Nelson, his American-born secretary, of having sent secret military data to this country in official U. S. diplomatic pouches.

But Smith said in his cable:

"I have insisted and have insured that diplomatic, military and naval personnel of this mission restrict themselves implicity and exclusively to legitimate and authorized sources of information.

"Mr. Magidoff informed me that he considered the allegations made by the Soviet citizen, Miss Nelson, and published in Izvestia, are entirely false.

"I can confirm the fact that they are false insofar as they relate to American embassy personnel."

White House Is 'Firetrap'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman knows he's living in a "firetrap."

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said yesterday Mr. Truman agrees completely with W. E. Reynolds, public buildings commissioner, on that score.

Reynolds told a Senate appropriations subcommittee that the residential part of the White House is one of the worst firetraps in the nation. Some of the second floor, Reynolds said, is holding up "purely from habit." He asked for $50,000 to make it safe.

Outcome Of Vote In Ohio In Question

Stassen Victories Raise His Stock

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Harold E. Stassen's smashing victories in Wisconsin and Nebraska in his race for presidential delegates have imposed a large question mark on the outcome of the Ohio primary May 4.

Most political observers a month ago gave Stassen only an outside chance to win possibly three to five Ohio delegates in his battle with Sen. Robert A. Taft, the state's favorite son candidate. They foresee now the possibility of his cutting deep into the block of 53 delegates which the state will send to the Philadelphia convention.

The best Stassen can do is to capture 23 delegates as that is the limit of his delegate entries in the primary—two each in eleven districts and one at large. To capture all or a majority of the 23 certainly would be construed as another Stassen victory and would send Senator Taft's presidential stock toward bottom.

STASSEN

Realizing the importance of the Ohio outcome both Taft and Stassen plan to turn on the heat full force from now until primary day. Stassen re-enters Ohio next Wednesday for four days campaigning and many of his supporters believe he may stay in Ohio until primary day.

Some of Stassen's friends believe he will carry his campaign into each of the eleven districts in which he has delegates entered. Taft is scheduled to spend most of the time until May 4 campaigning vigorously throughout the state, particularly in the eleven contested districts.

TAFT

Stassen supporters now are bewailing their failure to enter a full slate of delegates against the Taft-organization slate of 53. They purposely avoided the rural sections, entering candidates in only two districts which might be classed as rural—the sixth and seventh. All the other entries are in the industrial centers with the exception of the two Hamilton county districts and the Franklin county district.

Stassen's strength in the rural sections as indicated by the Wisconsin and Nebraska results has led many of his supporters to believe he would have had a good chance of winning delegates in Ohio rural districts also.

Political leaders generally anticipate a heavy vote, possibly as much as 1,200,000 divided 650,000 Republican and 550,000 Democrat. This is about 300,000 under the record and considerably above the average.

One of the worries of organization leaders reports here indicate is the apparent strength of the silent vote. These are voters who are reluctant or absolutely refuse to express publicly their choice as between Taft and Stassen.

Spanish-American War Anniversary Nears

Half-Century Thins Ranks of Veterans

A "memorable day" will be observed Wednesday by the thinning ranks of Spanish-American war veterans in Mansfield.

Fifty years ago this week the Spanish-American war began. Members of Charles Dick Camp 17, Spanish-American War Veterans, will mark "Mustering day" on Wednesday.

The passage of half a century has thinned the ranks of the vetetans who fought in the war of 1898, but those who remain find it difficult to realize 50 years have passed since they marched off to war.

A visit to Memorial hall on Park avenue west on most any afternoon will find a group of vets seated at a card table playing euchre or lounging in easy chairs, talking over old times.

Leader in many discussions is Charles R. Hall, commander of the Mansfield camp and custodian of Memorial building. Hall still recalls with clarity "that memorable day when we were called to the colors."

"After the Maine was blown up, everyone expected war. On April 21—early evening it was—the fire bell called out the boys, and people massed on the square as the word went out that diplomatic relations had been broken with Spain."

CAFES THROWN OPEN

"That night all the cafes were thrown open to the boys, and the next day we left for the Army. After training, I was sent to Cuba. I only stayed there six weeks, but it seemed like a year."

Joining in the discussion, Joseph Parrott, 625 Park avenue west, also a Spanish-American war vet, described the long, hard voyage to the Philippines, where he served.

"It took us 41 days to travel from the west coast to the Philippines. And that troopship! It was too long for one breaker and too short for two."

Both in the Philippines and in Cuba, the soldiers' worst enemy was not bullets but disease and lack of sanitation. Hall and Parrott told of the heavy casualties taken by malaria, yellow fever and other tropical diseases.

"I was in the Philippines for three years with the Third U. S. Cavalry regiment. Nine out of ten had dysentery, and there was no pure water supply and no sanitation," Parrott said.

RAIN WAS CONSTANT

"Well, in Cuba, one of the worst things was that there wasn't any way to keep dry," Hall continued. "That constant rain and the humid jungles were enough to drive a man crazy."

"Sometimes we sit here talking and it's hard to realize it has been so long ago," Hall said. "I certainly don't feel 50 years older than I did in 1898."

More than 100 Mansfielders served in Company M, Eighth Infantry regiment of the Ohio National Guard, which fought in the Spanish-American war.

Today approximately 40 men are listed on the encampment roll and Hall said probably three or four other" war veterans live in Mansfield.

As part of the Muster day observance Wednesday, the members of the encampment plan to renew the oath of allegiance taken when they entered Army service 50 years ago.

Joan Twitchell Weds Mr. Betz

THE Park avenue Baptist Church was the scene of the pretty formal wedding solemnized Saturday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. for Miss Joan E. Twitchell and Charles William Betz jr. Rev. Matthew G. Madden, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiated in the presence of many relatives and friends.

Nuptial vows for the young couple were exchanged before an altar decorated with palms, ferns, baskets of white flowers and seven branch candelabra.

Miss Twitchell, who was given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Langham Twitchell, 150 West First street. Mr. Betz' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Betz sr., 225 Atcheson avenue.

Preceding the service a program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Fred Lewis and Mrs. Jack Curley was the vocal soloist.

The bride was lovely in the traditional wedding gown of white satin over blush pink, made with short train. The floor length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a tiara of waxed orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a pearl pendent that had been the gift of the bride's father to the bride's mother on their wedding day. Her bouquet was of lilies and gardenias tied with shower ribbons.

Miss Nancy Twitchell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Paul R. Swank, sister of the bride, Mrs. John Koroknay, close friend of Miss Twitchell, and little Patsy Swank, niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

All the attendants wore gowns of aqua taffeta, made very full with floor length skirts, tight bodices, low round neckline and cap sleeves. They wore flowers in their hair to match their bouquets. Completing their ensembles were short white kid gloves and gold chokers. Miss Twitchell, maid of honor, carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations with streamers of ivy; Mrs. Swank and Mrs. Koroknay had yellow carnations and little Miss Swank, a miniature bouquet of pastel flowers.

Mrs. Twitchell chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue two piece sheer, street length, with navy accessories and wore a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Betz wore a grey crepe street length frock with orchid accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Ushers were Richard Weaver of Kokomo, Ind., Edward A. Eisele jr., of Cleveland, Gene Emmer of Cleveland and William W. Rowe of Elyria, all close friends of the bridegroom.

Serving as best man was Marshall D. Smith of this city, close friend of the bridegroom.

At the close of the service an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families and close friends. Later the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip. For traveling Mrs. Betz wore a navy blue silk faille dressmaker suit, navy blue hat, shoes and bag and grey gabardine topper. Her corsage was of gardenias.

After April 25 the couple will reside at 490½ Park avenue west.

The bride attended Wooster college and is assistant treasurer of the Westinghouse Credit Union.

Mr. Betz received his B. S. degree from Ohio university and served as lieutenant jg, U.S.N.R. during the World War II. He is a representative for the National Cash Register company.

Guests were in attendance from Bowling Green, Lima, Akron, Cleveland, Lakewood, Elyria, Kokomo, Ind., Columbus and Ashland.

Eighteen business associates of the National Cash Register company were in attendance. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hazeltine, Davis road, were hosts for a dinner-bridge at their home. Ex-GI Brings Fraulein to New Home In Mansfield

By DOROTHY MONROE

A wedding solemnized last week in St. Paul's Lutheran church here was the culmination of a romance begun in April, 1945 at Wuppertal-Elberfeld, Rhineland, Germany—a romance with many odds against it.

Non-fraternization between American GI's and German frauleins was the rule when Staff Sgt. John Bachman moved the 20 men in his command into half of a German apartment house. In one of the apartments in the other half of the house lived Fraulein Marlies Koch—now Mrs. John Bachman.

Sgt. Bachman really intended to observe the restriction. But that day when he popped his head out the back window to survey his surroundings and found himself gazing into the blue eyes of a lovely blond girl something happened to his good intentions.

The pretty young German girl was curious about the activity next door—her neighbors moving out and a flock of American GI's moving in—and she had popped her head out her window to survey the situation too. Who could blame a staff sgt. for suffering a lapse of memory on the score of the non-fraternization rule?

For the next two months Sgt. Bachman and one of his buddies used those two rear windows quite frequently. Out one window! In the other! Then John, his buddy, Marlies, her sister and Mother Koch would have a big, old get-together behind the drawn blackout curtains.

"That was an interesting experience," says John. "The girls' mother spoke only German, Marlies spoke German and and English, her sister could speak German and French, my buddy was an army interpreter and could carry on conversations in several languages and I speak English, German and French. We really had a conglomeration of languages."

This happy courtship entered abruptly into a "courtship by mail" when Sgt. Bachman, who was with the Military Government in Germany, was transferred. In October, 1945 he enrolled for a semester at the Shrivenham American university in Shrivenham, England. Then in December of the same year the army brought him back to the United States.

But Civilian John Bachman couldn't forget that pretty little blond fraulein. So for two years and three months he unwound red tape, filled out blanks in triplicate and waited. Finally everything was in order and Marlies Koch received permission to leave the Fatherland and to enter the United States

At 5 p. m. (European time) April 3 she took leave of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Werner Koch, and her sister, Anna-Dore, and her brother, Wolfgang, and boarded a Pan-American World Airways plane at Frankfurt, Germany. April 4 her prospective husband met her at LaGuardia airport in New York city.

After a fitting welcome to the U. S. A. John took his fiancee to dinner at a New York city cafeteria. The sight of such a large outlay of food made her ill. She said she could never select the food for her dinner so John ordered the meal for her. Later, as she looked down at a sizzling steak which covered her whole plate, tears came into her blue eyes as she observed, "That's more meat than my whole family has in a whole week."

After selecting an American-made trousseau (clothing is rationed and extremely expensive in Germany) the couple was ready for the wedding which was solemnized Saturday, April 10 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. John G. Gensel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Attending the couple at the double ring service were Mrs. Ann Yoakum and the bridegroom's brother, Fred, 649 Maple street.

The bride wore an aqua suit with neutral and brown accessories complemented by a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Yoakum's ensemble was brown and she wore gold accessories. Her corsage was composed of Joanna Hill roses.

The couple is residing temporarily at 158 West Temple court.

Mr. Bachman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Pontius, Daytona Beach, Fla., where he was residing until he left for New York March 30. He was born and educated at Doylestown, Ohio, and was graduated from high school there with the class of 1943. That same year he entered the 94th Infantry Division and in August, 1944 he left for overseas duty.

The bride attended school in Germany until she was 15 years old and eligible for the labor draft in that country. During the war years she worked on a farm and in a German factory. She studied English for six years while she was in school and speaks it quite fluently.

Couple Choose April 25 For Wedding Date

Miss Bernice Barr, 34 Western avenue, niece of Richard S. Barr, has named Sunday, April 25 as the date for her marriage to Frederick Jackson, nephew of Louis Ackerman, 494 South Main street.

Mrs. Madden will attend Miss Barr as matron of honor and Mr. Jackson's best man will be Benny Semper.

Mr. Jackson is affiliated with Mansfield Lodge No. 35, F. & A. M.

Carolyn Cox Feted Friday

Miss Carolyn Cox, bride-elect of William Colby, was feted Friday evening at a lovely party given by Mrs. William McKenzie, West First street. Guests were close friends of Mrs. Rupert Cox, mother of the bride-to-be.

The group surprised the honoree with a shower of linen gifts and the hostess gave her a white blanket. The evening was spent in playing wedding bingo.

Nautical appointments were used for the presentation of kitchen gadgets and for the serving of refreshments. The theme was "The Sea of Matrimony—Good Captain Carolyn."

Test Earth In Garden Before Planting Summer Vegetables

DON'T DELAY. Do it today.

If you haven't selected and purchased the seeds for your Freedom Garden, take care of that little matter right away, advises Mrs. Clarence Lisle, 238 Blymyer avenue, a member of Mansfield's Garden Study club.

Ordinarily the first of April is the time to plant lettuce, radishes, onions, spinach, peas, Swiss chard, beets and carrots. But this year, in many cases, the ground is still too damp for the young shoots to push through. To test the earth in your garden take a ball of it in your hand and squeeze it. If it breaks apart without packing you can plant your vegetable seeds safely.

First, says Mrs. Lisle, cover the ground with several inches of compost and spade it in. No commercial fertilizer is needed with compost and there is no danger of using too much compost because all soil needs humus which this type of fertilizer supplies. The compost which was made last fall is ready now to use in the early spring planting.

After spading rake the soil before it has time to dry. Otherwise the clods of dirt will harden, Mrs. Lisle warns. Where small seeds are to be sown, work the soil extra fine and level it off with the back of your rake.

"Use a board to mark the row and avoid tramping and packing," says this week's gardening advisor. "Make a shallow trench along the board for the seed row. Sow the seed sparingly with the fingers and avoid using more seed than is required.

Mrs. Lisle recommends the hoe for pulling the soil back over the seed to the specified depth. Gently firm the soil over the seed by tamping it with the back of the hoe.

"I planted pepper, tomato and some flower seeds in flats indoors in order to have them ready to set out when warm weather is here to stay, about the middle of May. Then I plant lima and green beans, corn, squash and cucumbers," Mrs. Lisle said.

Mrs. Lisle believes that the gardener receives a double reward for her work. She has fresh vegetables to eat, can and freeze and she also has an excellent opportunity for exercise, recreation and sport in the fresh air and sunshine while she is cultivating the foods.

The Garden Study club is essentially a study club as the name implies. The topics discussed at the meetings are on new interests and problems of concern to members. This year's discussions include such subjects as organic gardening, conservation, horticulture and flower arrangements.

Annual affairs include a combined breakfast and white elephant sale, a summer pilgrimage and a picnic in August.

When the club was organized in 1941 the officers were Mrs. Charles Birch, president; Mrs. R. K. Clark, treasurer and Mrs. R. R. Martin, secretary.

Mrs. Martin now serves as president and the other officers include Mrs. Walton Leedy, vice president; Mrs. Blaine Johnson, secretary, and Mrs. O. G. Place.

There are 21 active members in the club and two associate members. Eight of these are charter members.

The club's purpose is to stimulate interest and co-operation in gardening, to co-operate in the protection of the native flora, shrubs and trees and to encourage civic planting.

The Mansfield Garden club is the organization's sponsor and Mrs. Milton Doolittle was active in helping with the organization work. In 1941 the Garden Study club received the Margaret Moeller award at a meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio. This is given to the club making the most progress during the first year of its organization.

It's a Glorified Corner Grocery

Variety Keynotes Super-Market

There's more than meets the eye at a super-market.

Behind the scenes of this ever-expanding American institution you'll find a complex organization. A super-market such as the one operated by Kroger's on Park avenue west requires 44 employes and thousands of cases of foodstuffs each week.

Although the corner grocery still plays an important role in the day-to-day shopping of Mrs. Mansfielder, many housewives do the bulk of their shopping at the super-market. And the glorified version of the corner grocery expands continually to meet the demand.

Harold Cassell, manager of the Kroger super-market, describing the variety of goods sold in a modern super-market, said "we sell everything from aspirins to chewing tobacco."

"But of course although we've invaded the drug store field, the bulk of our business is, and I hope always will be, food. We'll never put the cart in front of the horse."

One of the principal problems facing a super-market manager is the business peaks in late afternoon and on week-ends, when hundreds of customers crowd the store, taxing the capacity of the checking clerks at the cash registers.

CUSTOMERS LINE UP

On a late Saturday afternoon, for example, the lines of 10 cash registers at the front of the store are ringing up sales constantly and customers are lined up six or eight deep behind each register.

While this sight gladdens the soul of a market manager, he must also take into account those mid-week slumps, when only a few hundred customers may pass through the store in a day. With 44 employes on the payroll, Cassell must find duties for the personnel throughout the week.

"Most of us 'double in brass'," Cassell said. "In the mornings, for example, the checkers have specific duties. One girl will be assigned to canned goods, stamping on price tags and filling the shelves, while another will work in the cereal department."

"Then, when business picks up in the afternoon, the girls will take their posts at the cash register until closing time. I must keep an eye on the shelves at all times to assure that we don't run low on supplies."

One of the biggest tasks in a super-market is stamping prices on each individual package. With tens of thousands of cans and boxes on the shelves, marking is a major occupation. And prices are changing constantly, requiring revision on thousands of packages each week.

PRICES VARY WEEKLY

Prices are determined by the district office in Columbus three times a week. Based on the law of supply and demand, prices fluctuate up and down weekly but, Cassell said, seldom change radically except when an unexpected shortage develops.

"Higher prices of food has changed people's buying habits, too," he pointed out. "Customers are more careful of what they buy, and they keep a closer eye on the price tag."

"Most of us are caught by the squeeze of inflation and, having only a fixed amount to spend on food, we just have to buy less expensive foods to keep within the budget.

"The average customer on a week-end spends $15 to $20 today, just as he did six months or a year ago. But food prices have gone up considerably over the last year, even though prices on some commodities dropped during the recent market break. So if the customer is spending the same amount of money now as a year ago, he's not buying as much steak and buying more hamburger and other cheaper foods."

The secret of the super-market is self-service. About the only departments which require the service of clerks is in the meat and fresh produce sections.

But even meat and fresh produce are being packaged to provide self-service. Meats such as cold cuts, whole hams, bacon and wieners now are being packaged with the price marked on the package. Some produce, too, is weighed and bagged for self-service.

One of the biggest worries of a super-market manager is children riding the food carts. Cassell always crosses his finger when he sees an infant riding a cart.

"I've never had an accident here yet," he said. 'But I cross my fingers everytime I see a child on one of those carts. We have signs all over the store, but they don't seem to do any good."

Wall Streets Face Threat From Ladies

Chicagoan Leads Financial Forum

CHICAGO —(AP)— An invasion by women of one of man's last strongholds—financial street—is on in earnest. Dollars are their ammunition, graphs and balance sheets their weapons.

They're even taking "boot training" through a non-profit organization called the Women's Finance forum to learn modern battle tactics in the men's world of high finance.

Reputedly, women now own 70 per cent of the private wealth of the nation. Numbering more than 70,000,000, women are said to hold more corporation stock than men. And women spend 85 cents of each consumer dollar.

Thus armed, some of the once weaker sex have decided they should control the money flow as well as hold the purse. That puts them right on the financial front lines which in Chicago run along La Salle street.

Perhaps symbolically, the skyscraper Board of Trade building, which dominates the street, is topped by a statue of a woman, Ceres, goddess of grain.

But the down-to-earth attack is spearheaded by Mrs. Lorraine L. Blair, director of the forum and an insurance and banking executive.

"During my business interviews with women I have been appalled by their lack of information on how to handle their money affairs," Mrs. Blair said in an interview. "More women are working for salaries now than in any other peacetime period, yet few know how to invest their savings."

The forum was organized to teach women how to buy and sell securities and commodity futures; how to build, conserve, and distribute an estate or other funds, and how to read and understand business pages and financial statements.

At the start the forum held one discussion meeting a month. Now it runs a 10-week course in securities, led by experts in specialized fields.

Springfield Wins 17th Mansfield Relays

A's, Bosox Play Two In Opener

NEW YORK—(AP)—Boston and Cincinnati muscle in on Washington's opening day monopoly Monday as the 1948 major league baseball campaign opens on three fronts.

As a matter of fact Boston will have the distinction of getting away first. At 10 a. m. Monday, the Boston Red Sox will be host to the Philadelphia Athletics in the first of a morning-afternoon doubleheader, since it's Patriot day in Boston.

MOUND CHOICES

Joe McCarthy, in his first year as manager of the Red Sox, probably will nominate the veteran righthander, Joe Dobson, Boston's biggest winner last year, to start the first game. Connie Mack, Athletics' leader, already has selected Phil Marchildon, his 19-game winning righthander of last year. Jack Kramer, acquired from the St. Louis Browns, probably will get the second game assignment for the Red Sox. His opponent will be Lou Brissie, freshman southpaw of the A's.

With President Harry S. Truman throwing out the first ball, the world champion New York Yankees will tackle the Senators in Washington in an afternoon game. Manager Bucky Harris has indicated he will pitch Allie Reynolds, strong-armed righthander who won 19 games for the Bronx Bombers in 1947. Early Wynn may get the assignment from Washington Manager Joe Kuhel.

GET IN THE ACT

The National league will get in the act with a contest between the Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates at Cincinnati, providing the flood waters stay away from Crosley field. Ewell (The Whip) Blackwell is almost certain to be Reds' Manager Johnny Neun's starter. Harold Gregg, former Brooklyn Dodger, is slated to oppose him.

Thus will open what is expected to prove one of the most interesting baseball seasons in many a year. Tuesday the firing will become general, as follows:

American league: Detroit at Chicago, St. Louis at Cleveland, New York at Washington, with the Red Sox and Athletics resting from their Patriot's day labors. National league: Brooklyn at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati at St. Louis.

Just Some Stuff About '48 Relays Facts, Figures

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

ART WILSON, Fostoria coach, echoed the sentiments of many of the coaches who brought squads to the talent-laden Mansfield Relays yesterday when he told us, "I just wanted my boys to study the form of the fine competitors in the Relays." . . . Wilson has a bunch of young athletes who can and will develop into pretty fair trackmen. . . . They saw the cream of Ohio's thinclads yesterday and should have picked up many fine tips. . . . Thirty-six of the 65 schools scored but all of the 949 individuals profited. . . . Unquestionably the Relays presented a tougher field than the one which will compete in the state meet next month. . . . Six 1947 state champs competed yesterday and several who will probably win '48 titles were in there running, jumping and tossing. . . . Marion Motley, the Cleveland Browns' big fullback, was an interested visitor. . . . He chatted with several of the Tyger athletes and said he came to the Relays to "See that Clifford boy run . . . he's from my old school—Canton McKinley. Besides I've heard a lot about these Relays and wanted to see them." . . . Clifford won the 120 and 220 in the state meet and the Mansfield Relays last year but failed in the defense of his furlong title.

★ ★ ★

DICK KROESEN, the Cleveland sportsman who acts as referee of all the Mansfield Relays, has come up with an innovation in measuring broad jumps. . . . Instead of using the old tape measure routine that has been around since track and field competition was a pup, graduated aluminum strips have been placed on both sides of the broad jump pits. . . . A long T-square is run across the two strips at the point of the jumper's impact and accurate, fast measuring results. . . . It helps tremendously, especially when a field such as yesterday's is in the competition. . . . Sixty-seven youngsters were in the Relays' broad jump. . . . The idea first came to light after the 1947 Relays when Kroesen, Harry Mehock and yours truly discussed ways and means of bettering the 1948 cinderpath carnival . . . The innovation again came up for discussion when the three of us appeared on Tom Manning's radio show a couple of weeks back. . . . Hank Richards, the efficient Tyger club Relays' chairman, took up the gauntlet and had the new device ready for the Relays.

★ ★ ★

TWO OLDSTERS in the business of running the Relays are Pat Pasini, the Kenyon athletic director, who acts as starter and Kroesen. . . . Both saw Harry Mehock had a good thing in the big meet and hopped on the bandwagon some 17 or 18 years ago. . . . Pasini has started 15 of the events. . . . Kroesen, a loquacious soul, goes all out boosting the Relays which he calls, "the greatest schoolboy athletic event in the country." . . . George Seedhouse, the veteran clerk of course, falls in line. . . . Says George, "It's small wonder the Mansfield Relays are such a great success. Mehock always has the best competitors and the most competent track officials in the business." . . . Fritz Howell, the Associated Press sports editor, who has been covering the Relays since 1935, tried to talk Senior high school officials out of a Varsity-M. . . . Fritz thinks he deserves a letter since he had Dick Logan on the AP All-Ohio grid team and Nick Gagich on the All-Ohio basketball team. . . . Mehock was almost run over by the Senior high band when it marched on the field to raise the colors. . . . Fotographers were everywhere, using everything from special equipment to box cameras. . . . Don Stinchcomb, Springfield hurdle ace, had spike wounds on his knee, which he says were inflicted during the running of the high sticks.

Dillard Sets World Record In Kansas Relays Hurdles

LAWRENCE, Kas.—(AP)—Michigan's mighty shotputter, Charles Fonville, and Baldwin-Wallace's hurdler, Harrison Dillard, gave United States Olympic hopes a healthy boost with world-record-bettering performances at the Kansas Relays Saturday.

Fonville pushed the 16-pound from 58-feet ¼ inch to top the recognized world's standard of 57-feet 1-inch set by the former Louisiana State university giant, Jack Torrance, at Oslo, Norway, in 1934.

Dillard won his fifty-second competitive race as he skimmed the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.6 seconds, a full tenth second under the world and intercollegiate mark established by Forest (Spec) Towns in 1936 and equalled by Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute in 1941.

Fonville, streamlined 195-pound pre-dental student, let go his record toss in his second preliminary try when only a few hundred fans were in the stands. He did not try again in the afternoon finals, but each of his four qualifying puts topped the Kansas relay mark of 52 feet 1½ inches by Elmer Hackney, Kansas State in 1939.

Referee Frank Potts, University of Colorado coach, announced that the performances of both Fonville and Dillard would be recognized as Kansas relays records and that application for recognition as world's standards also will be made.

Dillard won the high hurdles without being pushed. He broke fast and had a 10-yard advantage over Clyde (Smackover) Scott of Arkansas at the finish.

The Ebony Streak had served warning in the qualifying heats that he was out for a record. He won the trials in 14 seconds flat, two-tenths of a second under the meet mark. Two timers caught him at 13.9 seconds and another at 13.8.

Charles Baker, of the University of Arkansas, competing unattached, won the decathlon event with 6,730 points. In sixth place at the end of the first five events Friday, Baker came through in spectacular fashion Saturday to nose out Irvin (Moon) Mondschein, New York university's three-time national AAU champion, who placed second with 6,667 points.

Four other meet records were established as the relays came up with one of its strongest fields in history.

Amvets to Form Four-Team Loop

A four-team league of Amvets is planned for the summer, with details to be worked out after candidates open their drills Monday.

The softball practices, open to all World War II veterans, will start at the Amvets field adjoining the clubrooms, at 5:45 p. m. Monday. A manager will be chosen for the Amvets' entry in the Mansfield Club league.

The diamond is available for junior baseball teams.

St. Paul Slaps Toledo, 11-2

Rookie Jim Romano held the Hens to five hits, while the Saints made merry on nine hits and 10 walks off three Toledo flingers along with five errors by the Hens.

Bobby Addis led the St. Paul attack with five hits, two of them doubles, in six trips.

The Redbirds led at one time, 6-1. A ninth inning double by Bob Dillinger, good for two runs, and a single by Chuck Stevens, scoring Dillinger, tied the game. The Browns had picked up two runs in the eighth.

Yanks, Cards Scribes' Flag Picks

NEW YORK —(AP)— The world champion New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals will meet in the world series next October, according to the nation's top baseball writers—but only after a closely-waged battle in both the American and National leagues.

The Yanks were given a slight vote edge by the 115 scribes who took part in the annual Associated Press poll. The defending American league champions received 56 first place ballots to 59 for Boston. On points, the Bronx Bombers nipped the Bosox, 975 to 966.

In the National, the votes were more widely distributed. The Redbirds received 48 first place votes to 42 for the runner-up Boston Braves. Their point total was 914 to 888 for the Braves.

The biggest surprise was the apparent lack of enthusiasm by the writers for the Dodgers' chances to retain their National league championship. Only 12 thought the Dodgers would repeat while four picked them to finish as far down as fifth place. However, the Brooks got enough second and third place votes to edge out the New York Giants for third, 718 points to 661. The Giants also got a surprising dozen first place nominations.

The Cincinnati Reds were the only other club to receive a first place vote. One writer picked them to win the flag. On the other hand, the Reds, also received one last place vote. The only club to get at least one vote for each of the eight positions, the Reds, were figured to snare fifth place by a wide margin over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 443 to 326.

The Chicago Cubs won the battle for the National league cellar, getting only 207 votes to 213 for the Philadelphia Phillies. Neither got a first division vote.

No American league team, other than the Yankees and Red Sox, was selected to win the pennant. Although Cleveland received nine second place votes to five for Detroit, the Tigers nipped the Indians for third place 635 votes to 627 for Cleveland.

Wildcats Win Only Two First Places; Three Records Fall

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor

Springfield high school's talented crew of track and field artists yesterday made their first appearance in several years in the Mansfield Relays and took home the big 48-inch rotating trophy.

In winning the 17th running of the country's classiest schoolboy cinder carnival, the Wildcats placed in nine of the 18 events and wound up with a total of 31.7 points. Columbus Central and Dayton Dunbar finished in a tie for second place with 23 points apiece.

It was the second time since the meet was inaugurated in 1927 that a team from south of Mansfield had taken home the crown. Columbus Central turned the trick in 1947.

Coach Ronnie Ronemus' squad reaped the benefits of good balance as it could gain only two first places. Don Stinchcomb, Wildcat timber-topper, was the big gun in the victory. He helped establish one of the three new meet records which went onto the books.

Stinchcomb anchored the shuttle-hurdle team to a 30-yard victory and a new meet record of 58.1 seconds for the 480-yard event. Toledo Devilbiss held the old record of 58.5. The Springfield ace also won the 220-yard low hurdles and took a fifth place in the high sticks.

5,000 FANS WATCH

The 5,000 fans who turned out for the show watched Cleveland Central's defending state champions drop to fifth place in the classy field. Cleveland West Tech was fourth in the event which Founder-Director Harry Mehock termed "one of the best in history."

Mehock's Senior high club wound up in 15th place as 36 of the 61 schools scored.

Here's how the teams finished: Springfield 31.7, Dayton Dunbar 23, Columbus Central 23, Cleveland West Tech 19, Cleveland Central 16½, Canton McKinley 16, Cleveland East Tech 16, Akron North 15, Akron East 12, Cleveland Collinwood 11, Ambridge, Pa., 10, Barberton 9, Newark 8, Cleveland Benedictine 8, Mansfield 7 1-5, Oak Harbor 6.

Galion 4, Upper Sandusky 4, Euclid Shore 4, Warren Harding 4, Reynoldsburg 4, Mingo Junction 4, Ashland 4, Conneaut 4, Mt. Vernon 4, Niles McKinley 3, Louisville 3, Euclid Central 3, East Palestine 3, Akron South 2 1-5, Lima Central 2, Euclid Brush 2, New Castle, Pa., 1, Oberlin 1, Akron Buchtel 1-5, Osborn Bath 1-5.

TWO MORE MARKS

Ray Hamilton, Canton McKinley high-hurdler, came up with one of the new marks and the Akron North four-mile relay team authored the other Friday afternoon. Hamilton raced over the 120-yard highs in 14.9 seconds a tenth under the standard set in 1938 by Bob Wright of Huntington, W. Va.

Canton McKinley's other top performer—J. V. Clifford—ran into a bit of difficulty. Clifford, defending Relays and state champion in the 100 and 220, copped the century but was nosed out in the 220. He nipped Mansfield's Tommy Tucker with a 10.1 hundred but finished behind Bill Smith, Columbus Central, in the 220.

Although only a sophomore, Tucker made a definite imprint as a coming star. In addition to his second in the century, he picked up fifth places in the 220 and broad jump to account for six of Mansfield's 7 1-5 points.

Mansfield's other points were made by Willie Fowler and Don Cline, both sophomores. Cline went 11 feet, 3 inches to tie for fifth in the pole vault and Fowler tied for fourth in the high jump.

STARS FALL DOWN

Burl Lindsay, weights and Marty Bricker, hurdles were shut out. Both had been figured as sure Tyger point getters but fell down in their specialties. Lindsay did qualify for the shot put finals but came in sixth.

Perhaps the best individual effort was that of Richard Rytell, Ambridge, Pa. miler. Rytell almost single-handedly took home one of the big trophies which went to the top ten teams. As Ambridge's only entrant, Rytell

Tygers Face Three Diamond Foes

The Mansfield Senior High Tygers will face a major task in their opening baseball game of the season Tuesday. The local crew, coached by Johnny Lymper, will face the slants of Dick Messner in opposing Ashland on the A's diamond Tuesday afternoon.

The Tygers had a taste of competition last week when they met Ashland college in a practice duel. The local club looked fairly good although outscored, 8-3.

But Messner is a menace to any team. He's the all-Ohio cage star as a forward and is rated even better in baseball.

Coach Lymper plans to send his veteran hurler, Louis Gregorio, to the hill in the opening game. Joe Miller, the shifty back who played such a sparkling game for the varsity football team Friday night, will be behind the plate Tuesday as another letterman and Shelley Swank will be at second base. Gregorio worked for the sophomore team last season and started some games for the varsity team.

Miller, a long-ball hitter who hit well over 300 last season, will be in the cleanup spot. Miller won the important berth in the batting order last season and is regarded as one of the outstanding prep baseball players in northern Ohio.

Corky Perrine will open in center field, Chuck Watts at shortstop, Don Gross at first base, Mike Gruber third base, Phil Rogers left field, and Charles Marchant in right field.

Outfield reserves are Chuck Brown, Junior Elsass, and Dave Hardy, with Tommy Tucker and R. Hoeppner as infield subs. Bob Hartnett will be the second string catcher. Hardy can be used as a pitcher if needed.

Gruber, Marchant and Miller played in the football game Friday night, while Gruber and Gregorio are members of the track team.

After the opener Tuesday Wooster will come here Thursday, and Friday the Tygers will move to Galion for a contest there.

THE 1948 FISHERMAN

The modern sportsman must have an expensive array of artificial baits of bright colors, somber shades, and gadgets full of hooks. All this is arranged nicely in an enameled tackle box divided into sections with each lure in its particular spot. It has been said some baits are made to catch fish, others are made to catch fishermen.

He must have several kinds of steel and split bambo casting rods and an up-to-date, well-tailored ensemble of outdoor clothes. Then he will need an outboard motor, a boat to fasten it to, and a few life-preserver cushions.

He will want to cook a few of the smaller (under trophy size) fish so he needs a camp stove with windshields in order that the wind will not blow the fire out.

Oh yes, a water-proof combination match box and compass is a must. And since he will camp out a few nights he needs a good water-proofed tent with the floor sewed in to guard against snakes or other crawling vermin.

The cots should have sleeping pads, mosquito netting and a couple of good woolen blankets. An icebox is necessary to keep the food and drinks in a palatable condition and bring back the "muskies" and wall-eyed pike. Oh! he almost forgot the fishing license and the small stuff such as flashlight, can-opener, provisions, and cooking tools, etc.

Now where will he go? The only place to really catch fish that you can talk about is up in the sticks; let's say, Minnesota, Michigan or Canada. So he must have a guide at eight bucks a day and do the thing up right.

Boy! What a job loading all that paraphernalia into the car and trailer and, oh Min! that long portage The overloaded boat almost sank but he got there and back safely and in one piece Caught some fish, too No trophies this time. All tired out. Better luck next time.

All of which reminds us of a well-written article that appeared in the April issue of the Conservation Bulletin by Roberts Mann. Here it is:

"Behold the vacationist, poor guy headed for the hinterland—he hopes. He's going to rough it. Yeah. He'll rough it with guides, a lodge fireplaces and wassail. He'll hurry there and hurry back Why? I don t know He has some vague idea of recapturing the simple delights of the old swimming hole where catfish used to bite. Plus a trophy.

"Why all the gadgets? Why this ponderous preparation? Will he hear amidst the calculated casting of his fly-rod, the whispering of the wind? Will he sense the strength and dignity of the trees? Will he see the carpet beneath them? Will he find peace and comfort in the rain? Will he bless the sun? I doubt it.

"He is a creature of what we call civilization—lopsided mentally and physically. His daily life is saturated with speed, noise, a deadly routine. Herded into jostling crowds, he shuns solitude as he would a plague. The apparent futility of material and moral husbandry has him licked. He's a lonely frightened soul. His makeshift god is SUCCESS, measured by his income tax and what the Joneses do. But he can't bait his own hook.

"Some of the great thinking in this country has been done on the banks of what we call a 'crick' in my country, at the butt of a cane pole with a worm or minnow on the other end. Some has been done behind the plow.

Some at the handle of an ax. Since then we've gained in conveniences and luxury but we've lost in conviction of what really counts.

I'm minded of dudes whipping the mountain stream of Wyoming while the bull cook and a wrangler poking poles with worms—baited hooks out between the alders farther upstream, caught the trout for supper. I'm minded of the nights we caught frogs and fished in the back waters of the Illinois river and then ate them by a campfire—listening to the far-off music of hounds running a 'coon

"I'm minded of the psalmist who said 'HE maketh me to lie down in green pastures HE leadeth me beside the still waters HE restoreth my soul'."

DELAWARE —(AP)— Ohio Wesleyan's tennis team swamped Wittenberg college Saturday, 6-1, with a clean sweep of the singles and an even break in the doubles.

Jones' One Poor Pitch Ruins Tribe

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Jack Lohrke, sophomore third sacker from the Pacific Coast league, supplied the home run punch yesterday as the New York Giants edged the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, in an exhibition game in Cleveland stadium.

Lohrke slammed one of Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones' fast balls into the left field stands in the fourth inning with Johnny Mize and Bobby Rhawn on base.

The Indians out hit the Giants, 9-6, but couldn't bunch their blows. Thornton Lee, former Chicago White Sox hurler, started for the Giants and gave up six scattered hits in five innings. Ray Poat, former Indian, finished. Al Gettel and Bob Kuzava followed Jones on the mound for the Tribe.

By their victory the Giants clinched the spring exhibition series with the Indians. New York now has a 9-7 edge, with one game remaining today.

Jones, Stellar halfback of the Cleveland Browns who aspires to a Major league career, hurled the first six innings and gave the Giants all four runs on six hits.

BOUDREAU BLASTS DOUBLE

The Indians tallied a run in the opening inning when Allie Clark singled, took third when Manager Lou Boudreau bounced a double off the facing of the lower left field stands, and scored on Joe Gordon's fly.

Lohrke's circuit clout gave the Giants a 3-1 lead in the fourth. Johnny Mize had doubled and Bobby Rhawn had a "fluke" single before Lohrke's blast.

INDIANS JAM BASES

The Indians filled the bases with two out in their half of the fourth on a single by Ken Keltner and walks to Jones and Thurman Tucker, but Clark left the three runners stranded by lifting an easy fly to right field.

Jones partially thwarted what appeared to be another Giant uprising in the fifth. A single by Whitey Lockman, a double by Bobby Thomson and an intentional walk to Mize loaded the bases with only one out. Willard Marshall sent Lockman home with a long fly but Jones completed the inning by fanning Mickey Livingston.

The Indians collected another run in the fifth. Boudreau walked and took second on a single by Gordon. Johnny Berardino walked to fill the bases and Keltner's fly brought the score to 4 to 3 in the sixth on a pinch single by Dale Mitchell, an infield grounder by Clark and a single by Boudreau.

Favorites Win

ARCADIA, Calif.—(AP)—Favored Dr. Stanton and the highly regarded Chestertown captured the laurels in track record breaking time in the Grand Circuit harness racing yesterday as a crowd of 16,022, largest of the meeting, turned out at Santa Anita park for the sulky card.

CHAMP SAILS HIGH—Dave Albritton, former Ohio State and Olympic high jumper, clears 6 feet, 5 inches in a special exhibition event at yesterday's Mansfield Relays. 32,000 Expected For Reds' Opener With Bucs Monday

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Queen City will celebrate its annual undeclared holiday Monday as the Cincinnati Reds open the National league season here against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Crosley field has a seating capacity of 30,000 but Redleg officials say the opener crowd will number 32,000.

Ewell Blackwell, the National league's winningest pitcher last year and by a wide margin the most favored Redleg with Cincinnati fans, will be on the mound, opposing Hal Gregg, late of the Dodgers.

Manager Johnny Neun of Cincinnati, still was uncertain of his starting lineup but observers were convinced it would be the same which operated during the Reds' successful exhibition season.

Bill Meyer, the Pirates' new skipper, also was uncertain about the starters.

The Re ds, making their first appearance of the year Saturday at Crosley Field, outslugged Syracuse, 10-5, for the third victory over their International league farm club in as many days.

Johnny Vander Meer, the Cincinnati starter, pitched six innings and gave up nine hits. Johnny Hetki allowed Syracuse two the rest of the way.

Pair Features ABC Pin Work

DETROIT —(AP)— Russell Gersonde and Bert Barkow of Milwaukee staged a two-man show at the 45th annual ABC tournament yesterday as they effected three changes among leaders in the minor events.

Gersonde, a six-foot, five-inch carpenter teamed with the smaller Barkow for a 1318 count and third place in the doubles. They finished 43 pins off the pace set Friday by James Towns and William Sweeney of Chicago.

Gersdone took over third place in the all-events with 1942 for an average of 215 8 over the nine-game route, 13 pins behind Tony Pompein of Lorain, O, the current leader.

Barkow came up with a 1925 total to take over the fifth spot in the all-events.

At the same time, William Rapp of Alexandria, Va. rolled 695 for eighth place in the singles.
